Roses and Snow.

PASADENA, CAL., Jan. 2.

A CROWDED day in this beautiful city—the tournament of Roses in the morning; in the afternoon a football battle between East and West, the Pittsburgh University against Stanford University.

More than 750,000 came to see this Rose Tournament; crowds from all over California, came to the football game.

EVERYTHING is in the United States. Coming down through the Cajon Pass to Pasadena, warm in sunshine, with roses blooming everywhere in the open air, you passed dozens of automobiles going up the Pass, carrying skis and toboggan sleds. They were bound for Big Bear Lake and the mountains, where snow lies five feet deep. Only three hours motoring separates the Rose Tournament from deep snow.

THE London Gazette published inadvertently an admiralty announcement of extra pay for officers, IN CHARGE OF AIRCRAFT CARRIED BY SUBMARINES.

That Britain has submarines equipped with folding aircraft, ready if necessary, to carry destruction to the enemy's harbors, is a secret no longer.

That secret interests this country. We don't expect war from Britain, but what the British can build others can build.

WE spend billions on battleships, little on submarines and airplanes, and our submarines have a way of going down and staying down.

Suppose a dozen enemy submarines should slip into the harbor of New York, Boston, or San Francisco and Oakland, destroy any floating fighting ships, then release airplanes to raid the city and hold it for ransom.

That is the sort of attack planned when submarines are built to carry fast aircraft.

WHAT effective defense could we offer to such an attack? NONE, except an offer to pay any price for mercy. Our new record may read, some day, "Not a cent

TROLLEYS CRASH ON GRADE

Eight passengers were injured in a head-on collision between two cars on the Homeville division of the Pittsburgh Railways Company at Bellwood stop, near Homestead, shortly before noon today. The motormen of cars jumped before the crash. The cabs of both cars were crushed.

The cars, running on a single track in Ravine street near the Bellwood stop, crashed on a grade and hurled passengers to the front of the cars. There were about 10 passengers on each and all suffered minor injuries, eight needing the attention of physicians.

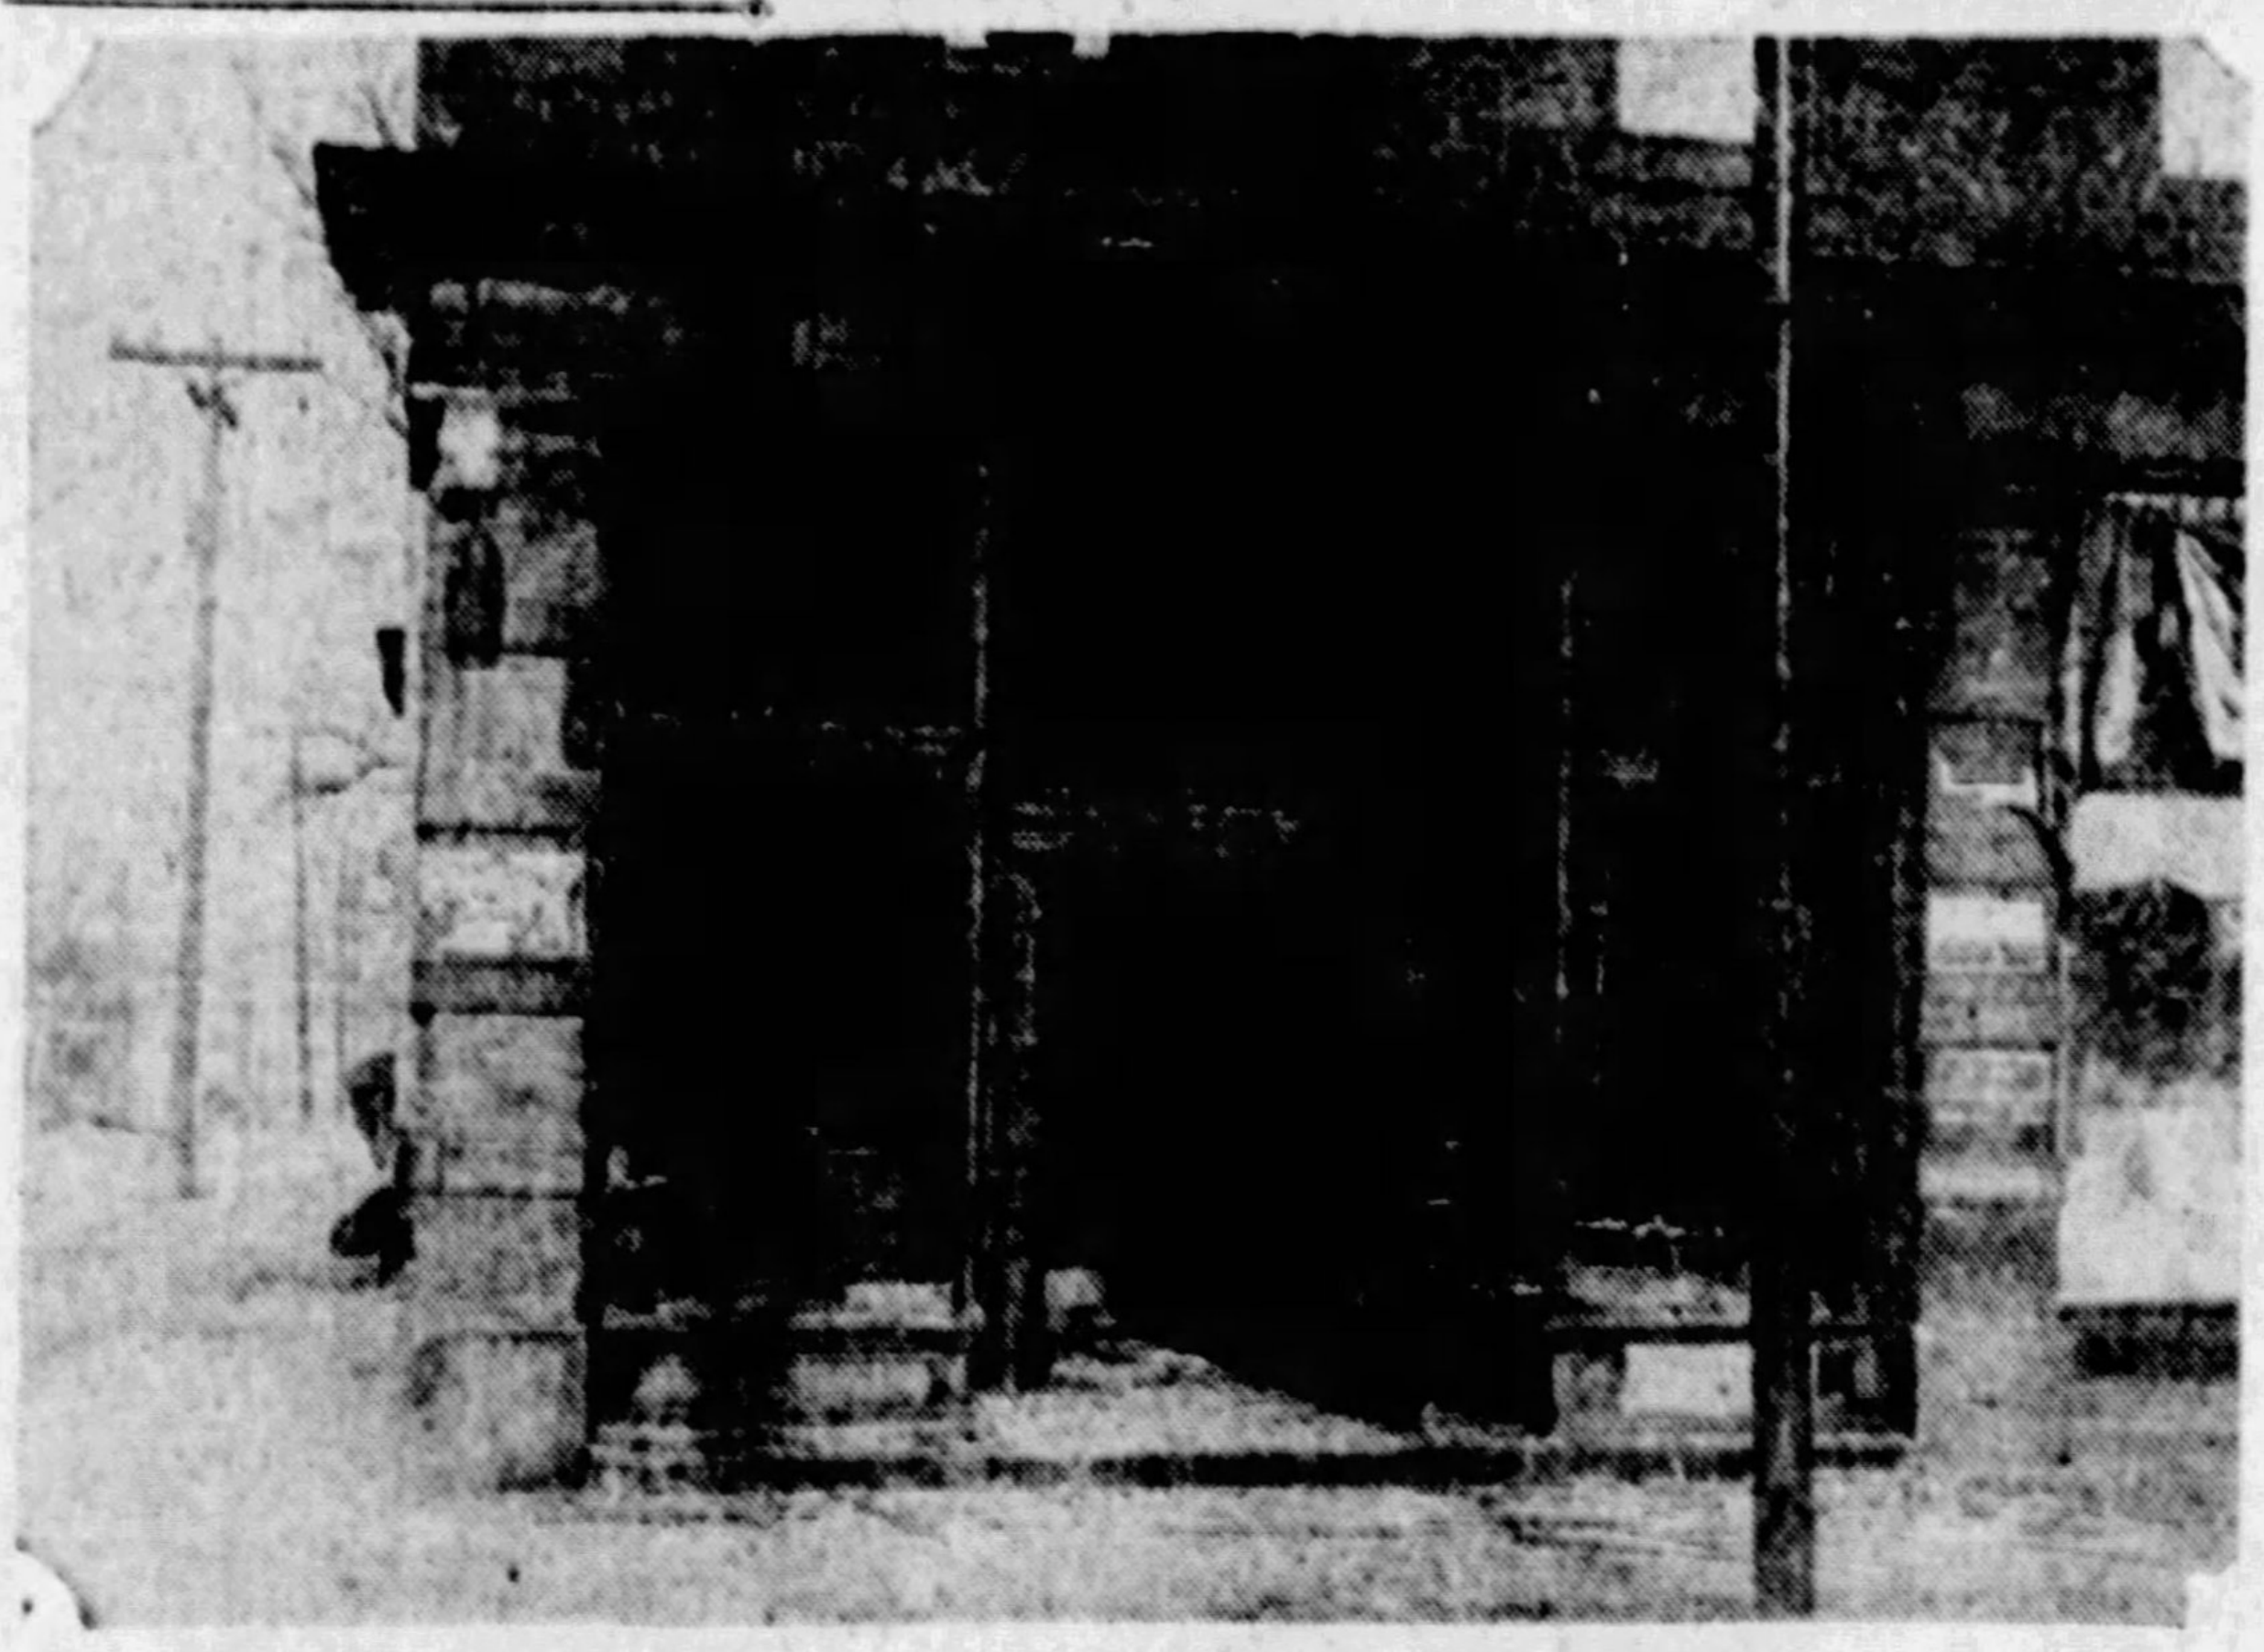
Mrs. Julia Jury, 55; Mrs. Mary Kish, 23, and Mrs. Catherine Mortis, 48, were taken to Homestead Hospital, all suffering from shock in addition to numerous cuts and bruises. Others attended by Dr. E. A. O'Hara were John Grossitt, 56; his wife, Hazel Grossit, 54; Paul Horvat, 28; Michael Manning, 50, and Mrs. H. Kelly, 45. All suffered cuts and bruises.

One of the cars failed to stop at a switch.

Flames Rout Family In Larimer Avenue

THROUGH SMOKE TO SAFETY

Flames starting in the store of Matta Miele, 559 Larimer avenue, early today, drove the family of Dr. M. C. Conti, living on the second floor, hurriedly into the street. The family lost all personal belongings. Mrs. Conti, her daughter, Maxine, 3, and the family dog, Sambo, shown in the photograph, followed the doctor through smoke-filled halls to safety.



STARTED IN STORE BENEATH APARTMENT

The fire started in the Miele confectionery store, located directly beneath the Conti apartment. It is the second fire there within a month. The third floor of the building was unoccupied.

LINDY OVER WAR ZONE

SAN SALVADOR, Salvador, Jan. 3.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off for Tegucigalpa on the next stage of his good will flight to Central America at 11:45 a. m. today (Central standard time).

The 140-mile hop to the Honduran Capital carries the American air hero close to the scene of recent fighting in Nicaragua between American marines and rebel forces since Tegucigalpa is only about 25 miles from the Nicaraguan border in the neighborhood of which the fighting is going on.

At the Ilopango Air Field, from which the American aviator took off, it was stated that strong winds were blowing in the region of Tegucigalpa.

Dr. Romero Bosque, president of Salvador, members of his cabinet and the American minister, Jefferson Caffery, were the last persons to say goodby to the American flier.

Before heading northeast for Tegucigalpa the famous Spirit of St. Louis made various evolutions over the city, much to the delight of the crowd that had gathered to see him off.

Several Salvador aviators took off with the American flier to accompany him as far as the border.

REINFORCE NICARAGUA TROOPS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Reinforcements were ordered today to be rushed to the U. S. Marines in Nicaragua, who have sustained severe losses during the last week in battles with Gen. Sandino's rebels. Six Marines have been killed and approximately 30 wounded in two days' fighting.

Two fresh battalions of Marines, of 500 rifles each, were ordered mobilized at once and dispatched to Nicaragua as soon as they can be made ready. One battalion will form at Quantico, Va., and one at San Diego.

In addition to these reinforcements, orders also have been issued for the realignment of American military and naval forces in Nicaraguan waters, which will permit more rifles to be sent against the rebels.

Bluejackets from the squadron of naval vessels now on duty there will be sent ashore to relieve those Marines who have been doing guard duty in peaceful sectors, and the Marines thus relieved will be sent

Influence of Mexico On Nicaragua Traced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Here are the outstanding facts concerning the latest attack by Nicaraguan bandits upon American marines, which resulted in the killing of six marines and the wounding of nearly 30 others:

Colonel Louis Mason Gulick, commander of the American marines in Nicaragua, is quoted in an Associated Press dispatch from Managua as follows:

"It is the belief of Colonel Gulick that Sandino is receiving money and equipment from outside sources, the khaki uniforms and powerful rifles of his men exceeding the quality hitherto displayed by the bandits."

President Coolidge in his special message to Congress last January said:

"As a matter of fact, I have the most conclusive evidence that arms and munitions in large quantities have been on several occasions since August, 1926, shipped to the Revolutionists in Nicaragua.

"Boats carrying these munitions have been fitted out in Mexican ports and some of the munitions bear evidence of having belonged to the Mexican government.

"It also appears that the ships were fitted out with the full knowledge of and, in some cases, with the encouragement of Mexican officials, and were in one instance, at least, commanded by a Mexican naval reserve officer."

Dr. Alejandro Cesar, Nicaraguan minister to the United States, said in a statement at New York on January 10 last:

"Your Panama canal, what will happen to it if Soviet money behind Mexico overthrows the established government of Nicaragua?"

Dr. Joaquin Guadara Zavala, counsellor of the Nicaraguan legation in Washington, said at New York at the same time:

"Last August 8,000 rifles and 30 machine guns were shipped from Mexico to the Sacasa rebels. Our forces captured 1,000 of these rifles. They had the seal of the Mexican government on their cases."

CABARETS' PERMITS HELD UP

A war on cabaret proprietors who "cheated" the police New Year's closing edict was opened today by Director James M. Clark when the director announced that all cabaret permits are being held up. "Until a complete checkup of the cabarets is completed not a permit will leave my office," Director Clark said.

The places affected are Flotilla club, foot of Wood street; Venice restaurant, 219 Diamond street; Nixon cafe, Sixth avenue; Bamboo Inn, 136 Sixth street; Kleman's Inn, Collins avenue and Broad street; Charles Sporano's Inn, 707 Webster avenue; Carlton Terrace, 169 Liberty avenue;

Music Until! Now They'll Wait Until

At the Flotilla club, Carlton Terrace, Castle Gardes, El Tower and Nixon restaurant, a police investigator reported to his superiors, he was informed last Saturday that dancing and music would continue from 8 o'clock Saturday night until.

"Until when," the investigator asked.

"Until you get tired," was the answer, the investigator reported.

"They fell into the trap we laid," Director Clark said. "Now they will wait for their permits until—until—well maybe never."

Bandits Raid Home

Forcing their way into the home of Mrs. Dorothy Stern, 5738 Wilkins avenue, at 10 a. m. today, two armed burglars bound Mrs. Stern and Morris Baer, of 500 Chestnut street, a visitor in the Stern home, and escaped with furs and jewelry valued at more than $6,000.

Following her report to the police that her home had been entered, Inspector Bernard Kirlev, who personally investigated the case, directed Mrs. Stern and Baer to report to detective headquarters. The detectives learned that the articles said to have been carried off by the robbers were insured under a policy for burglary insurance. A laundress and a maid who were working in the basement of the house at the time said they heard no disturbance on the upper floors.

Mrs. Stern answered her doorbell

60 DIE IN ZERO WAVE; COLD TO CONTINUE

30 Perish in Chicago Alone—Relief Only in Some Districts Forecast.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—With more than 60 persons already dead, no immediate let-up in the nation-wide cold wave was in sight today. Only in the East Gulf States, Florida, the Ohio valley and over the lower lake region is there any relief likely in the next 24 hours. In these districts warmer weather is promised for tomorrow. "Fair and continued cold" was the forecast for today and tomorrow in other states east of the Mississippi.

At least 30 are dead in Chicago alone. Ten deaths were reported from St. Louis and four from New York City.

As far South as Atlanta, Ga., the mercury dropped to within one degree above zero. Other southern Near Zero Here—No Let-up Likely for 24 Hours, Is the Outlook.

The frigid wave which struck Pittsburgh early New Year's day will continue for another 24 hours. Temperatures close to the zero mark—2 above—were recorded shortly after daylight, the lowest of the night. During the late afternoon the mercury went to 12, and the lowest predicted for tonight is five degrees.

Tomorrow there is a possibility that the mercury will climb and bring relief from the extreme cold weather.

Last midnight the mercury stood at 7 and remained there until 4 o'clock this morning when there was a drop of one degree. At 7 o'clock when the exodus from homes to offices began it was 3 and during the next two hours the mercury dropped to 2 above. Between nine and ten o'clock there was an upward trend of three degrees.

Chair for Winter Monday

By International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 3.—Raymond Winter, Pittsburgh street car conductor, must die in the electric chair at Rockview Penitentiary next Monday.

Last hope for the condemned slayer vanished today with the announcement of F. R. Hoy, secretary of the Board of Pardons, that Winter's plea for clemency on a basis of insanity has been refused. The decision came after the case had been before the board six months.

Winter was convicted of the deaths of Helen and Alexander Sabo, whose bodies were found in a creek near Pittsburgh. Their skulls had been fractured. Winter was the last person seen with them. Much of the evidence against him was circumstantial.

MODERN WAYS RULE AS WAR CLOUDS CHINA

M'GOVERN-BABCOCK AUDIT WAR ON

UP-TO-DATE BARRICADES

When troops of the so-called people's army laid siege to the ancient city of Choochow, China, the orientals saw many new means of warfare employed. Here's one—a sandbag barricade.

TROOPS BY THE CARLOAD

While big guns spoke across the city and thousands fell in successive futile assaults, trains rushed reinforcements to the attacking army in the best modern fashion. Chinese commanders understand that railways are the life blood of modern military strategy.

RELIEF FOR REFUGEES

Here are some of the thousands of refugees from the beleagured city, cared for by the Chinese Swastika Society. Under the banner of the society, women and children were safe, it having humanity parallel to that of the Red Cross.

M'GOVERN, BABCOCK WAR ON

The county commissioners apparently are going to disagree even when their judgment is unanimous on a matter of county business. Newly seated County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, champion of a general audit of the county's business, and Commissioner E. V. Babcock are both in favor of an audit, but nevertheless, have opened a new series of verbal bouts over the matter.

The first resulted in Commissioner Babcock proposing that newly elected County Controller Robert G. Woodside be asked to seek the aid of Common Pleas Court in making an audit, and, after his proposal was adopted by the board, fighting McGovern's move to secure bids from auditing companies for a general audit. Babcock's resolution was adopted with the support of Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, reelected chairman of the board, and, by the same lineup, McGovern's proposal was defeated.

The meeting was the most hectic in the history of the commissioner's office. Fireworks were set off when Commissioner Babcock questioned Commissioner McGovern's integrity. McGovern jumped to his feet, and, in a belligerent tone, shouted, "I am equal to you, morally, mentally and physically." Then they faced each other and hurled personal accusations, until Commissioner Armstrong, acting as peacemaker, rapped for order.

The conference room was filled. Many hard-boiled politicians occupied seats. As Babcock and McGovern wrangled, the spectators moved forward to more favorable positions, fearing they might miss something. The argument between the two commissioners grew so hot that for a time it was feared a physical encounter might take place.

After quiet had been restored, but with peace far in the offing, Commissioner McGovern presented resolutions asking for the dismissal of Public Works Director Norman F. Brown, Gilbert Cloonan, statistician; Justis Schroedel, county superintendent of buildings; William H. Ziefel, chief clerk in the commissioners' office, and James E. Routley, assistant chief clerk. McGovern charged them with inefficiency, and averred that graft was running rampant in their departments. "For these reasons, they should be dismissed," he said.

His motion was lost. Instead of discharging them, the commissioners gave the employes a vote of thanks for services rendered the county, and reappointed them. Commissioner McGovern, undaunted, continued to stand his ground.

He proposed that Attorney Ralph Frank be appointed an assistant county solicitor. Commissioners Armstrong and Babcock, of different opinions, announced the reappointment of County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich, who in turn reappointed his assistants, William C. Jacob, M. B. Lesher and B. B. McGinniss.

The minority commissioner made another attempt to secure patronage, and proposed the names of Charles E. Flinn and H. H. Kunde for appointment to the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes. It was another defeat for McGovern. The commissioners reappointed the old board with the exception of Harry Lutz, who was succeeded by James Houlahen, former Democratic commissioner. John D. Graham, former recorder of deeds, also was appointed to the board, to fill a vacancy.

Twenty-four county detectives, under Chief George W. Murren, and assistant chief, Harry B. Cochran, also took the oath. The force continues unchanged, with six additional places, granted by the last Legislature, to be filled, probably this week.

states experienced the coldest weather in many years. It was two above zero at Northfield, Vt., and several degrees below zero in upstate New York and in Chicago. The coldest temperature yet reported is 34 below at Bismarck, N. D.

Railroad trains from the West ran from one to five hours late. The icy weather has indirectly been the cause of train wrecks, transportation delays and fires. The fires were especially numerous in western and northern New York.

Despite a temperature of 6 below at Atlantic City, N. J., two hardy swimmers at the resort plunged into the breakers for their daily dip.

Hundreds of homeless and hungry were sheltered, clothed and fed by charitable organizations in New York City.

30 DEAD IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—With 30 fatalities in its wake, Chicago's zero cold wave has been broken and today will see a slight rise in temperature.

This was the cheering news from the weather forecast station this morning.

Moderation will be gradual, it was announced, with today's minimum temperature predicted at 5 above zero and maximum 14 above. A steady rise to normal within the next two days is predicted.

Of the 30 victims reported dead in the Chicago district since the intense cold gripped the city, a score were killed in various traffic accidents caused by the blizzard and heavy snowfall.

The others were direct victims of exposure.

Nine were added to the list of dead yesterday and last night.

ENGINE, PLUGS FROZEN, FIREMEN USE BUCKETS

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 3.—With no hydrants near and the pumper and chemical apparatus frozen, firemen were compelled to form a bucket brigade and carry water from a spring 100 yards away to fight a fire at Frank Zezulas' greenhouse, East Kensington. The blaze, originating from an overheated [illegible] plants, causing $1,500 loss.

Two Die in Charleroi Fire

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 3.—Two children burned to death at noon today when a sheet of flame swept through the two-room shack of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodard, Negroes, in Railroad street. The interior of the house was destroyed by the blaze, but the outside was intact.

James Woodard, 14 months, asleep in bed, and Mamon Woodard, 2 months, asleep in a baby carriage, were burned to death. Mary, 3, slightly burned, was rescued by Sam Capalini, ice man.

The children were alone when the fire broke out. Capalini was helping Mrs. Woodard carry water from a nearby pump. Suddenly flames broke through the shack windows. There was a blast and the interior of the two-room hut took fire.

The building was one of a row of tar paper-covered shacks in the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's settlement along Railroad street. The interior, lined with paper, burned quickly.

LAUNCH BOMB ATTACK

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 3.—(AP.)—The United States Marine air forces are preparing to bomb the Sandino rebels, who were driven into the forests by Marines and national guardsmen in the recent engagements around Quilali. Five bombing planes in command of Maj. R. E. Rowell will undertake this task. Other planes have already dropped bombs on groups of rebels but the casualties have not been ascertained, as the planes returned immediately to their base.

All of the patrols sent out from Telpaneca at Ocotal have reached Quilali, and the garrison, now held by Marines and guards has ample supplies of food, medicines and ammunition. The medical supplies were brought to Quilali yesterday, and all the wounded have been cared for.

The air attacks were carried out in conjunction with columns advancing toward Quilali, and the rebel forces kept well under cover, fearing to come into the open.

The reinforcing Sunday of the patrol which captured Quilali Friday cost one American life and five marines were wounded as they pushed their way through the rebels and joined their comrades. In the capture of Quilali, five marines were killed and 23 wounded.

The rebel casualties in the two encounters were not determined because dead and wounded were quickly removed to save them from vultures.

PLANES AID DRIVE

Once the marines had established themselves in Quilali their planes, under Maj. R. E. Rowell, bombed the Sandino forces. Maj. Rowell advised Col. Louis Mason Gulick, commander of the marines in Nicaragua, that several direct hits were made, undoubtedly causing numerous casualties.

Preparations were under way today to concentrate American columns at the former Sandino stronghold to crush the insurgents and are hidden in the almost inaccessible points of the region.

After losing Quilali, Sandino shifted his headquarters to El Chipote, 1 miles away. The new headquarters are near the Coco River, which, flowing through an unexplored wilderness, offers a means of escape should the rebel leader be hard pressed.

First Sergeant Thomas G. Bruce of the marines lately a lieutenant in the Nicaraguan National Guard, was killed in a rebel counter-attack Sunday while a combat patrol was en route from Telpaneca to reinforce Quilali. Bruce, whose home was in Philadelphia, displayed great heroism at Ocotal last July when a handful of marines and guardsmen administered a crushing defeat to Sandino's forces.

OFFICER WOUNDED

Lieut. Merton A. Richal of Wisconsin was seriously wounded in Sunday's encounter. Four other marines were also wounded.

1928 TO LEAP OR NOT TO LEAP

LYA DE PUTTI

1928 doesn't mean a thing, according to Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who really ought to know. "Oh, yeah—it's leap year. I forgot. Well—women are still feminine—and we don't need any leap years, anyhow." But Lya de Putti, Hungarian movie actress, figures differently. She wants a husband and doesn't care who knows it and—"If I can find the man I want, I'll follow him to the ends of the earth and propose myself, if necessary—but I hope he beats me to it."

Anna Godkin, 13, of 1246 Benton avenue, North Side, was struck by a hit-and-run motorist and left lying unconscious at Benton and California avenues last night. She was taken to St. John's General Hospital, where her condition is said to be critical.

"The owners or managers of these places disregarded my order, now they must pay," the director said. "They probably cleaned up advancing their cover charges for New Year's eve, but, when I get through with them, it will be a different story."

Director Clark said that those guilty of flagrant violations would be closed by revoking their permits. Those guilty of a slight infraction would be penalized as warranted.

"The cheaters had a good laugh when they believed they were putting something over on me," the director said. "Well, I will have the last laugh when I close their places."

Already "fixers" are attempting to soften the hearts of Clark and Walsh, by interceding for the "cheaters," but Director Clark and Superintendent Walsh are showing them the cold shoulder.

WOMAN TAKES LYE DRAUGHT

In a fit of despondency, Mrs. Alice Turley, 50, swallowed lye at her home, 315 Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, today, in an attempt to end her life, according to a report to the Wilkinsburg police. She was found by a son. He summoned a physician, who ordered her removed to Columbia Hospital. Hospital attendants said she would recover.

NEWS more important than Rose Tournament or football game is supplied by Professor I. S. Bowen of California's Institute of Technology. He confirms the surmise made by La Place at the end of the Eighteenth century, that the nebulae in the Milky Way are made up of "excited gas."

IF WE knew more about that gas which Sir William Huggins long ago guessed at, and called "Nebulum" we might understand the stuff of which suns and planets are made, the raw material of the cosmos.

TELL your children to look at little specks in the Milky Way and try to realize the tiny spots are suns, some a million times as big as our sun, which in turn, is a million times as big as our earth.

Such terms have little meaning, even for an astronomer. But they stir the imagination.

THE United States employment service predicts good times and plenty of work for 1928.

The old bugaboo of a bad election year seems to have vanished.

The ranks of millionaire Americans are thinner, only 23,897 in 1926 against 30,518 in 1925. The ultra rich, however, are increasing. Two hundred and twenty-eight Americans had incomes of $1,000,000 or more last year, only 207 in 1925.

Quite a few have incomes above $5,000,000 a year. The government does not give their names.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS' memory is to be honored by building a magnificent lighthouse costing $4,000,000. What is left of Columbus' body will lie under the lighthouse on a reservation given by the government of San Domingo.

Columbus would be puzzled by one feature of his memorial, namely lights shooting up into the air to guide fliers. He would think angels were expected. Architects are invited to compete in this enterprise, which should stir the imagination.

REPORTS of the airplane bombardment of an abandoned river bridge near Albemarle, N. C., prove that our pilots are able, and all we need is a real fighting air fleet. Bombs containing 550 pounds of explosives easily demolished a structure of reinforced steel and concrete. What would 5,000-pound TNT bombs do to a battleship.

ARMY pilots hit the bridge from a height so great that the target looked like "a piece of white shoestring six inches long."

Somebody, preferably the government, should give substantial prizes to the best airplane marksmen.

SAY BROTHERS ADMIT THEFTS

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 3.—Two brothers, arrested in Pittsburgh and turned over to state police here, have confessed, the latter say, to rifling telephone pay stations in the district from Wilkinsburg to Tarentum and to robbing the express office at Export of $200 cash.

They are Thomas Grierson, 20, and his brother, James, 18. They also are wanted in connection with the recent robbery of the home of C. A. Blose in Delmont.

PGH. TRAIN WRECKED; 5 HURT

DERAILED ON CURVE IN W. VA.

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 3.—Five persons were injured when four cars on Train No. 78, Huntington-Pittsburgh express on the Ohio River division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad were derailed on a curve at Ravens Rock at 4 o'clock this morning.

A broken rail, due to the cold, was responsible for the wreck, according to a report to General Manager J. M. Scott.

The engine, baggage and express cars remained on the rails, but the four coaches following were derailed, jumped into a ditch and partly turned on their side against an embankment. Had the coaches gone to the other side of the tracks they would have dropped into the Ohio River, as the road is narrow at that point.

"The accident was the result of a transverse fissure in a 90-pound rail," said J. M. Scott, general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio at Wheeling. "Our investigation shows that the locomotive and the baggage and mail car in the seven-car train passed the defective rail safely. The smoker, ladies' coach and two sleeping cars were derailed. All the injured were in the day coaches. The passengers were transferred to a relief train and were about three and one-half hours late in reaching their destinations."

The injured are:

KEEFER, J. F., 31, Woodlawn, Pa., an employe of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation; deep contusions in the back; at Parkersburg Hospital, where his condition is reported as serious.

WELCH, E. C., 50, Ravenswood, W. Va., an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; fracture of the collar bone; taken to Parkersburg Hospital.

EBERHART, JAMES, 23, McMechen, W. Va., an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio; slight contusions.

LIVINGSTON, JAKE, 42, a Negro, Pomeroy, O.; left leg injured.

and was confronted by the men who pushed their way into the house and with drawn revolvers, commanded her "to keep still," and encountering Baer, ordered him also to keep silent.

While one of the men "covered" Mrs. Stern and Baer with a revolver in each hand, his confederate went to the second floor and brought several bedsheets which he tore into ribbons and bound his victims hand and foot.

CUT PHONE WIRES

The robbers previously had cut the telephone wires and proceeded with their work in a systematic manner. Two sable coats valued at $4,000, a diamond ring, a diamond studded platinum stickpin and other costly jewelry were taken, articles of lesser value being ignored while the men ransacked the house.

Taking their loot the men walked out of the house deliberately and drove off in a blue Packard. Mrs. Stern and Baer, left helpless on the floor of the living room, cried for help. A workman in an adjoining building rushed into the house and released the victims. This was several minutes after the robbers had escaped and in searching for a telephone still more time was lost in notifying the police.

A description of the automobile and the stolen articles was broadcast.

FATHER COX GIVES DINNER TO NEWSBOYS

1,000 BOYS AT ANNUAL BANQUET

More than 1,000 boys attended Father James R. Cox New Year's dinner in St. Patrick's Church, Seventeenth street. Father Cox, himself a former newsie, gives the party each year for newsboys of Pittsburgh.

DID THEY LIKE IT? NOT MUCH

Just four concrete demonstrations of how successful the party really was.

DRAG "FOX" BEFORE COURT

FOUR PLEAS OPEN TO KIDNAP SLAYER

By ARTHUR L. MAREK,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 3.—William Edward Hickman, confessed kidnaper and murderer of little Marian Parker, must answer for his crime. Four alternatives appeared open for the remorseless youth as he awaited his arraignment in Superior Court this afternoon to plead to charges of kidnaping and murder.

1—Hickman may plead not guilty and repudiate his confession.

2—He may follow the precedent of the Leopold-Loeb case, plead guilty, and throw himself upon the mercy of the court.

3—Under the new California criminal code Hickman may plead "Not guilty by reason of insanity" and precipitate a long-drawn court battle to escape the gallows.

4—He may plead guilty and ask that he be examined to determine his mental condition before sentence is passed upon him.

District Attorney Asa Keyes, who will demand that Hickman be sent to the gibbet, is prepared to combat any insanity plea.

The prosecutor has announced he can produce "surprise" witnesses who will testify that Hickman is now, was, and always has been sane.

Besides a group of noted alienists who have observed Hickman since his arrest, Keyes is understood to have obtained statements from persons who have known Hickman intimately for years and who will testify that never in the past have his actions betrayed a trace of insanity.

Hickman is scheduled to be brought before Superior Judge Carlos Hardy, who presided over the Los Angeles County Courts, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. And once his plea has been entered, Judge Hardy promises to make quick work of Hickman's case.

Whatever Hickman's plea will be, his attorney, Jerome Walsh, who came here from Kansas City to defend him, has not divulged a single defense plan.

'Big Bill' Edwards Wed; 'Obey' Omitted

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—State officials and leaders of New York society today attended the wedding of William H. (Big Bill) Edwards, former Princeton football star, and Mrs. Norma J. Stellsmith, 31, school teacher of Pelham, at the Hotel Commodore.

The ceremony, which omitted the word "obey," was performed by the brother and cousin of the bridegroom, Richard H. Edwards, head of religious education at Cornell, and Dr. Boyd Edwards, headmaster of Pottstown, Pa., High School, who officiated jointly.

The ushers included Pierpont Edwards Twitchell and Hanford Mead Twitchell, nephews of the bridegroom; George H. Edwards, a brother; George R. Van Namee, William J. Duffy, Bernard F. Gimbel, Charles R. Holcomb and Courtland Otis.

NINE DAYS FOR RUTH TO LIVE

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—With only nine days to live, Ruth Snyder and her former lover, Henry Judd Gray, are today awaiting their approaching doom with the fortitude of fatalists. In the dreary death house at Sing Sing Prison, only a few cells apart, they are living their last bleak hours in heart-rending solitude.

Hope of escaping that sinister contraption, known as the electric chair, still burns faintly in the breast of Mrs. Snyder. She believes Gov. Alfred E. Smith may be prevailed upon to commute her sentence to life imprisonment.

GRAY RESIGNED

Gray seems resigned to his fate. He rarely talks these last fateful days. He reads incessantly. His favorite book is the Bible.

The Governor will hold a clemency hearing in Albany on Thursday. It will be the condemned couple's last chance to avoid paying the extreme penalty for the sashweight murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, the home-loving art editor.

Mrs. Snyder displayed interest this morning in the news that Justice Townsend Scudder, who presided at their trial, had made a written recommendation to Gov. Smith. The judge refused, however, to reveal the substance of his recommendation, but he is known to advocate the abolition of capital punishment.

Mrs. Snyder had but one visitor over the New Year's holiday—her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown. The mother started to talk to Ruth in Norwegian, as has been her custom, but the guards ordered her to talk in English or leave the death house.

Hundreds of applications have come to Warden Lewis E. Lawes requesting permission to witness the execution. None but officials and newspapermen will be admitted, however.

SHANGHAI TO HOLLYWOOD

Dolores Del Rio has received an ancient Chinese headpiece and gown from Lung Yep, rich Shanghai film and theater owner, who has been corresponding with the star and who displays her pictures in China. The oriental exhibitor claims this headpiece is priceless and was obtained from one of the aristocratic Chinese families.

'Confetti,' Shout Palm Beach Tots As Snow Falls

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 3—Large snow flakes fell in Palm Beach today, the first since before 1886.

Children who never saw snow before asked, "Who is throwing confetti?"

COURT DELAYS CHARGED TO LAWYERS

What was pointed out as another illustration of dilatory methods of lawyers in trying their cases when called, was given in Common Pleas Court today. Only two out of more than 30 listed answered "ready" when Clerk Jack Moore read the list.

In the meantime 230 jurors summoned for duty in the trying of cases waited to be chosen for service, while eight Common Pleas Court rooms with as many judges remained idle.

Clerk Moore began to call the list a second time, showing that only two cases were actually ready for trial. Defendants in two cases were waiting to have their suits assigned to a judge, with one plaintiff ready, but the defense absent. Judge James B. Drew, who is sitting all month in the assignment room, directed that cases be put on the deferred list where lawyers do not answer. It is claimed by court officers that lawyers are much to blame for many cases not being tried promptly.

SWIMMER HURT IN CRASH

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Paul Wyatt, of Brownsville, Well known Olympic swimmer, was recovering in a hospital here today from severe cuts received yesterday near Greensburg when his automobile was struck by another machine. WELCOME MA LINDY HOME

By Universal Service.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 3.—Completing the last 135 miles of the homeward trip from Mexico City in the almost record time of 57 minutes, Harry Brooks brought his giant tri-motored plane to rest at 4:42 p. m. yesterday at Ford Airport. The last leg of the trip was from Sturgis, Mich.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh stepped from the plane almost into the arms of Mrs. Henry Ford, who, with Mr. Ford, was among the 100 or so persons gathered to meet the famous goodwill party that has had so much buffeting from the elements since leaving St. Louis last Saturday.

Mrs. Lindbergh was warmly welcomed by the Fords and others gathered here. She thanked Mr. Ford for her trip in these words:

"I cannot begin to express the pleasures we have all enjoyed at your hands. I can only hope you have not been worried about us. There was never the slightest danger."

And she turned to flash a winning smile upon Pilot Brooks and his aide, Harry Russell, who were, in turn, then welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Ford.

The party unloaded what was almost a small mountain of baggage and to the assembly of relatives and friends displayed their Mexican souvenirs, donning sombreros and Spanish shawls to pose before a battery of movie cameras.

Mrs. Lindbergh returns to her desk in Cass Technical High School this morning.

MAN SHOT DURING FAMILY FIGHT, STEPSON JAILED

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 3.—Joseph Conglo, 48, of Lilly, near here, lies seriously wounded in Mercy Hospital and his stepson, Peter Golash, 19, is in Ebensburg jail, following a family quarrel last night. Golash, it is alleged, disarmed his stepfather and shot him twice after the elder man had wounded his mother in the arm.

NEW KENSINGTON GIRL, 3, SERIOUSLY BURNED

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 3.—Betty Hill, 3, daughter of Harry M. Hill, Y. M. C. A. physical director, was seriously burned when her dress caught fire from an open stove in the bathroom. She is in a local hospital.

FATHER SAVES 3 TOTS, WIFE

A shade tree in the rear of a two-story frame dwelling in Braddock township, served as a fire escape which enabled Edward Javormick to save himself from his burning home and rescue his wife and three children. North Braddock firemen found the fire plugs frozen and were powerless to save the building which was destroyed, causing a loss estimated at $6,500.

Javormick, a conductor for the Pittsburgh Railways Company, was awakened shortly before 6 a. m. by smoke which filled his bedchamber on the second floor of the house and at the stairway he was confronted by a blast of flame. The man then climbed from a window in the room and reached a tree which stood close to the rear of the house. Sliding to the ground, he procured a ladder and rescued his wife, Mrs. Mary Javormick, and three children, Joseph, 5; Mary, 3, and Anna, 2. Mrs. Javormick and the children were in their night clothing and are suffering from exposure. They were cared for by neighboring families.

The fire is believed to have been caused by an over-heated coal stove.

Lone Thug Gets $100

A lone robber, armed with a revolver, last night obtained $100 from Harry Cassidy, proprietor of a saloon at 4309 Butler street. ITALIAN OMELET -:- WINS PLACE IN -:- LEAGUE OF RATIONS

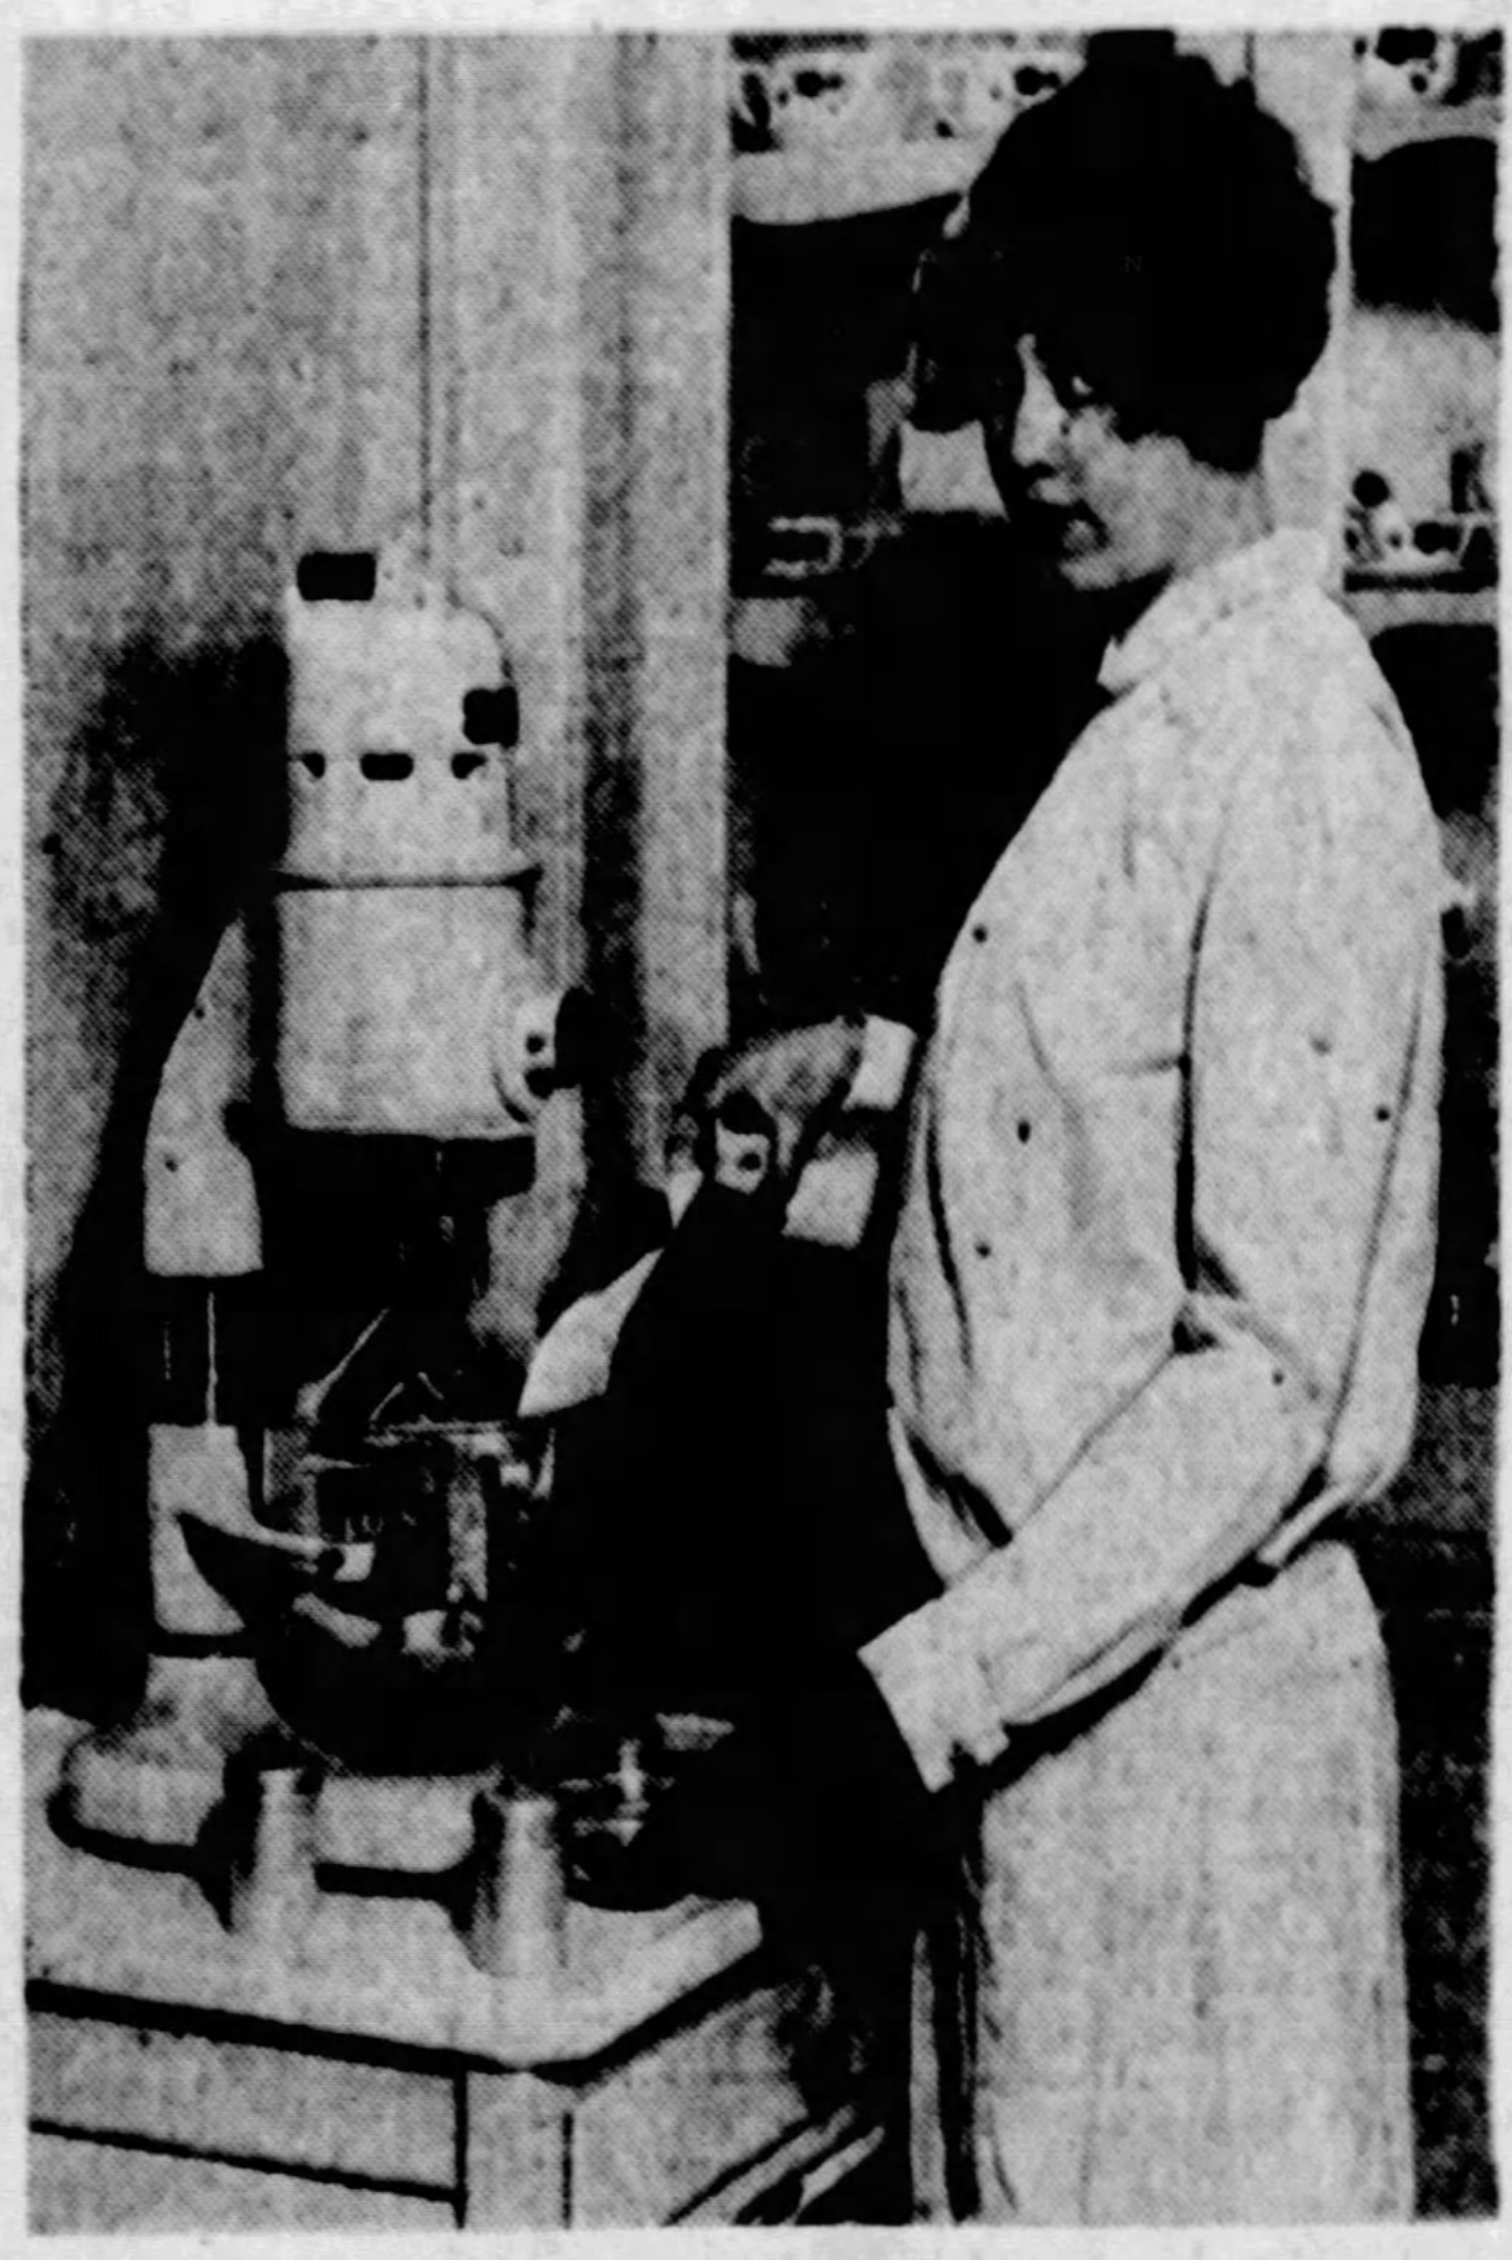
FIRST, THE PROPER STANCE

Have you tried an Italian omelet? You don't know what you're missing. Ask Margaret A. Darnhardt. She knows her green peppers, mushrooms and garlic.



MIXING COUNTS

Any kind of an omelet—French, Spanish, American or whatnot—must be mixed with eggs and milk.

AND GARLIC COUNTS, TOO

Margaret says the real secret of a good omelet a la Mussolini is the amount of garlic used—a thin slice. The next step is the frying pan over a slow fire.

SPAGHETTI NEXT

Without spaghetti the omelet wouldn't be Italian, so Margaret shows how to work in the proper footage.

9 FLEE AS FIRE DESTROYS HOME

While three fire companies were being summoned to the home of Fiore Berganszo, of Iledi, on the Frankstown road, two miles east of the city line this morning, the home, a large one-story structure, was destroyed by fire. Berganszo, his wife and seven children escaped with a few clothes and are being cared for by neighbors.

The fire is believed to have been caused by an overheated furnace. When a member of the family was awakened by smoke the fire departments of Wilkinsburg, Rosedale and Unity were called, but the fire was beyond control when they arrived.

FIRE GIVES ALTOONA PUPILS NEW VACATION

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 3.—Webster school pupils had their Christmas vacation extended, fire early this morning preventing the opening of the school.

"Bad Boy," Elected Mayor, "Gets Even"

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Jan. 3.—(AP.)—A new city administration swung into action today with "Bad Boy" Andrew J. Gillis at its helm.

The red-headed former gasoline station proprietor who entered politics when a mayor refused him a license to conduct his business on his favorite site, made public the list of those who must walk the plank. It included just about every officeholder possible—fire chief, city solicitor, highways superintendent, assessor, building inspector, overseer of the poor, city messenger, health commissioner, registrar of voters, harbor master, library director and four policemen.

There would have been others, too, but unfortunately civil service requirements made charges necessary for removal in certain cases.

Mayor Gillis is better known locally as "Bossy" and once served in the Navy.

"We won, didn't we? Don't the winners deserve the gravy?" he asked right after inauguration.

Turning to a doorway where a motley jam of onlookers was gathered, he roared:

"All right, you birds. Listen hard and go out and tell your friends why the ax fell."

First there was the rash person who had "pinched" him for selling gasoline without a permit. Then there was the "guy" who, when the present Mayor was a boy, had told him to "run along home, puppy dog." Those two were "out of luck for life."

There was the man who "spent a lot of jack to beat the present mayor who was always a friend of his."

There were several comparatively mild offenders: The man "who spells his name Irish and pronounces it French;" the man who "had his chance and muffed it;" the man who "hasn't made up his mind yet whether he is with the present mayor or against him," and the man who "can't play ball."

Bossy asserted that day and night police captains would earn their pay.

"They will be up on charges in a minute if I ever hear of them getting too high hat to send out word at night for a prisoner who wants to arrange bail," he promised as he recollected the time when he was in the "jug" for "bouncing my fist off a mayor's mug."

That was in bygone times when the gasoline station permit fight was at its height and Gillis was given 60 days in jail for an assault on Mayor Michael Cashman, predecessor of the man the "bad boy" ousted in the last election.

Will Wants to See Poor-Man Forecast

WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 3.—Did you read all the New Year's optimism and applesauce in the papers today by all our leading men and bankers? Same gang every year. Every one either a millionaire or an officeholder.

Now there is 30,000 millionaires in the country, and 110,000,000 that are not yet. You never see a New Year's prediction by one of the hundred and ten. Looks like just for the novelty one paper would print just what some poor man saw in store for the coming year.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Ice Water Flows In "P. O." as Red Tape Is Cut

Governmental red tape was snipped this morning and ice water again flows through the Federal Building.

On November 1, George Entriken, custodian, received orders to cut off the ice supply in the building's coolers on account of cold weather. But even the powers that be in the Supervising Architects' office at Washington capitulated when a record of the temperature of running water in the building disclosed that it was never colder than tepid.

They put 500 pounds into the coolers today.

GIMBEL ▾ CLEARANCE K & B STOCKS

THE first move of the new GIMBEL management is to unload Kaufmann & Baer stocks before February first when the new fiscal year begins. To dispose of them lock, stock and barrel, so that February first will find us with nothing but complete assortments of new, fresh merchandise.

It is no small task to dispose of such a vast quantity of merchandise as is represented by these Kaufmann & Baer stocks—in so short a time. It is no small order to clear out the old and stock up adequately with the new in a month's time. But GIMBELS can do it. And will.

Ordinary methods would never do it. But GIMBELS, pioneers in modern merchandising methods, have laid careful plans so that it may be accomplished. Have realized that tremendous reductions in prices must be taken, that actual costs and original selling prices must be forgotten. Have realized these things and been quick to take the steps necessary for their execution.

The whole store participates. Every department. All goods with the K. & B. label on them must go. Practically everything on our counters, tables and shelves is included. Nothing is excepted but a few new staple goods.

Odd lots and remnants are included, of course, but there are many large, well assorted groups of the most desirable kinds of merchandise in the clearance at radical price reductions. All winter ready-to-wear apparel—for men, women and children. Necessities and luxuries for the home and for the person.

KENDALL, LUMBER MAGNATE, KILLED BY AUTO

CLUB, POLITICAL FIGURE DIES OF INJURIES

J. L. Kendall, 66, president of the Kendall Lumber Company and prominent in business, club and political circles, died at 3:25 o'clock this morning in the Pittsburgh Hospital from injuries received Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile at Wilkins and Murray avenues.

Edwin Keen, 4023 Rosetta street, driver of the car, was arrested.

Mr. Kendall was born December 25, 1861, on a farm in Somerset county, near Meyersdale. He was the son of John C. and Elizabeth Kendall. His formal education was limited to attendance at the public schools of the neighborhood, which he left while still a boy to embark on the business career that was to be his work and his hobby during the remainder of his life, but he attained through his own efforts a degree of education that led to his being chosen to many positions of trust and honor, including trusteeships in the Pennsylvania State College and Bethany College.

Before he was 21 Mr. Kendall went into the lumber business with H. C. Houston of Connellsville, one of the pioneer lumber men of that section. He worked as a lumberjack in the logging camps, worked in the sawmills later, and in the offices. About 25 years ago he came to Pittsburgh and founded the lumber company which he headed at the time of his death. The company now has extensive holdings of timberland in Oregon, which Mr. Kendall repeatedly visited. His office walls are covered with photographs of forest scenes, showing fine examples of Douglas fir trees.

Mr. Kendall married Miss Kathryn Guiler of Connellsville, who survives him, with two daughters, Mrs. Mary Canby of New York City and Mrs. Kathryn Wallace of Indianapolis, and one son, Jacob Lewis Kendall, Jr., of Pittsburgh. Another son, Eugene, died two years ago.

Mr. Kendall is also survived by two brothers, John C. of Oakland, Md., and Samuel A. of Meyersdale, and four sisters, Mrs. Joseph E. Baker and Mrs. John H. Hembold, both of Meyersdale; Mrs. John W. Baker of Crellin, Md., and Miss Mattie Kendall of Homestead.

He was a member of the Duquesne Club, Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Union League Club of Philadelphia, and the Pike Run Country Club of Westmoreland county, and was a former president of the Americus Republican Club. He was a Shriner and a Scottish Rite Mason, and a member of the East End Christian Church.

He was a director of the First National Bank of Connellsville, the National Mines and Smelters Company of Mexico, and was president and director of the Listie-Quemahoning Coal Company and vice president and director of the Stroh Steel Hardening Process Company.

Mr. Kendall made his home in the Schenley apartments.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

A Complexion

You "Can't Do a Thing With"

These pimples, yellow spots and that sallowness—they come from a deeper cause than you think. These skin blemishes are the symptom of a dangerous toxic or poisoned condition of the system which is due to a "half-dead" or sluggish liver. The liver becoming weak or congested under the strain of our abnormal living habits, fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then toxemia with stubborn skin troubles. If complexion is bad it is a sign that the liver needs a little help. There is nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall has been found to be a great natural stimulant for the liver, which is a purifier of blood and skin. The genuine, pure ox gall is to be had, dainty and tasteless, in the form of Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c at good druggists. To be sure of getting the genuine, look for the name Dioxol and picture of ox's head on the package.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil—you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All druggists.

LESS MARRIAGE REPORT SHOWS

Dan Cupid fell down on the job in Allegheny county last year, and as a result fewer marriage licenses were issued here than during 1926, a report of the marriage license bureau shows. Last year 10,732 licenses were issued, but this is 319 less than in 1926. June still remains the favorite and during the 30 days of this month, 1,506 licenses were issued. However, this is 23 less than were issued during the same month the year previous.

The report showed that more divorcees were granted licenses in 1927 than in 1926. Forty-four girls under 16 applied for licenses during the year against 80 in 1926.

YOU'RE

James Doyle, Steerer For Cupid, Dies

James "Cupid" Doyle, 50, ambassador extraordinary from the courts of Hymen to the aldermanic halls of Pittsburgh, is dead.

Arrested as a "drunk" when found unconscious at South and East Diamond streets early today, he died a short time afterwards in the Allegheny General Hospital where he had been taken from the North Side Police Station.

SKULL FRACTURED

He had suffered a skull fracture, it was said at the hospital. Police expressed the opinion he had fallen and struck his head. They did not notice he was ill until he had been placed in a cell.

Doyle was a familiar figure around the City-County Building and the Court House. Every morning at 9 o'clock, rain or shine, hot or cold, he took his post in front of one building or the other. Inconspicuous in his dark suit, a bit shabby, but always well brushed, he would stand apparently listlessly until his alert eyes spotted a couple moving toward the marriage license office. His ability to detect such couples was uncanny.

At once his listlessness would vanish. With a speed that baffled his rival "cupids" he dodged pedestrians, trucks and street cars until he reached his quarry. There would be a brief conference—Doyle at once masterful and obsequous, the boy striving to be nonchalant and the girl trying not to giggle.

Then, while rivals that could not match him in strategy or persuasiveness, watched, Doyle would lead the couple to the license office and thence to the office of a friendly alderman where, after witnessing the ceremony, he would pocket his fee augmented, possibly, by a tip from the groom.

Doyle's body is being held at the morgue. His address is listed as "city."

Slug in Machine Brings Slug In Eye

"I just returned the slug he put in the slot machine," explained Morris Rosen, in North Side police court today, in telling why he had hit a customer in the eye at his confectionery, 918 Chateau street, before it was raided yesterday.

Magistrate F. M. Hough didn't think well of Rosen's explanation and fined him $100 on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

Walter Schramm, 27, 818 East Ohio street, his eye blackened by the blow, to which Rosen admitted, denied he had put a slug in the machine. He and Ward Harris, 22, 1332 Liverpool street, arrested in the raid, were discharged.

PACKARD CARS IN PRICE CUT

Following closely on the heels of a quarterly statement, which showed the company to be doing the greatest volume of business in its entire history, the Packard Motor Car Company today announced a big price reduction on all types of its own custom model eight cylinder cars. The cars remain as the company has been building in the past.

The announcement said the Packard factories are busier than ever before in almost 30 years of motor car building and at a time when seasonal activity is least expected. This bears out the statement for the first quarter of the company's fiscal year, including the months of September, October and November, made public last week. During these months Packard shipped 13,020 automobiles, far exceeding shipments for any single quarter since the first Packard was built. Profits of the company, moreover, established a new high mark at $5,533,368, including the net income from factory branches and all other sources.

The new prices show reductions running from $500 to $700 on the enclosed models with somewhat lower cuts in the prices of the open models.

CHARGE NEGLIGENCE IN CITY PAY HANDLING

TREASURER AND PAYMASTER GRILLED

Negligence in handling payrolls that would result in heavy loss to the city of Pittsburgh in case of a holdup was charged when Treasurer Wallace Borland and Paymaster Harry W. Minnemeyer were placed on the grill by Council today.

The two men were called to explain why Minnemeyer has been carrying the payroll in taxicabs instead of in the automobile provided by Council, as required by the bonding company. The $10,000 bond would be canceled if a loss is sustained by the paymaster unless he carries the money in his own car driven by his own chauffeur.

Questioning developed that Borland had been using the car to be driven to the office every morning.

"Do you think it is right for you to use the paymaster's car to come to work?" demanded Robert Garland.

"Sure," replied the treasurer.

"I differ on that. This is the paymaster's car anyway."

"It belongs in the treasurer's office," insisted Borland.

"If Mr. Borland thinks that Council appropriated money to give him this car for his own use he is mistaken," interjected P. J. McArdle.

Minnemeyer said that he used the car whenever it is available, but that he has had to use taxis at times.

"The car would be available for him every minute if he would follow my instructions and tell me when it is needed," said Borland. "Sometimes the car stands idle for 24 hours."

"It makes no difference if the car stands idle for 48 hours," said James F. Malone. "This is a city car and it should be available for the paymaster whenever it's needed. I'm not going to criticise Mr. Borland—"

"I won't stand for any criticism," interrupted Borland hotly.

"Then I will criticise you," retorted Malone. "I think you are all wrong on this. I think you, as city treasurer, should make every effort to secure proper protection for these payrolls. An ounce of protection is worth a pound of cure and it's up to you to furnish that ounce."

"The car is available," insisted Borland.

"Then why did you let the paymaster use taxicabs? Why did you give him a taxi book?"

"I didn't give it to him. He got it from the mayor's office."

Councilman W. Y. English suggested that the city pay by check, but Malone objected to changing the present system until it has been worked properly.

"The responsibility is the treasurer's," he said. "He knows it now."

THINK DAWN IS DOWN OFF CAPE COD

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 3—(AP.)—Evidence that Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson's missing plane, The Dawn and its four passengers, came down not far from the tip of Cape Cod accumulated today.

A schooner's crew here swore they heard the hum of a plane's motor and a muffled splash as it crashed into the Atlantic on the night of Friday, December 23.

Their story substantiated that told earlier by a radio operator aboard the Steamer Oakey L. Alexander when that ship docked here. The operator, Jerome Knowles, said that at the same hour, as his ship was passing Cape Cod he heard a message, presumably from the plane, requesting radio bearings from the Chatham station of the Radio Corporation of America. A few minutes later came the words, "plane down," he said.

The latest evidence that tragedy overtook the plane on its flight from New York to Harbor Grace, N. F., occurred just as it put out to sea, came from the master and crew of the Nova Scotian tern schooner, Rose Anne Belliveau.

The schooner was 18 miles northwest of Nauset Beach light. A gale was blowing, occasional flurries of snow obscured the view, and heavy seas were chashing over the deck, Capt. R. V. Comeau related.

Off the windward rail of the schooner's bow those aboard heard sounds which the captain said he was certain came from airplane motors. Then the droning increased only to end abruptly and to be followed almost immediately by a heavy splash.

Only a staunch vessel could have lived in the sea that was running, the captain said. The schooner heard about the Dawn by its radio, but had no transmitting apparatus.

MONONGAHELA CITY BUILT IN MINIATURE

KLAN RECEIVER SUIT SET FOR APRIL 9

Affairs of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan will be aired April 9 in the Federal District Court when a hearing will be held in the suit brought by the klan seeking to have the Rev. John F. Strayer, Dr. Charles S. Hunter, Dr. Charles F. Oyer, William C. Davis and Attorney Van A. Barrickman restrained by injunction from interfering with the operation of the klan, and the countersuit brought by the five defendants seeking appointment of a receiver for the klan. The latter suit charges the klan with fostering riots and other alleged depredations.

The date for the hearing was set today by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker when Attorney Barrickman moved for an early hearing, which was opposed by Attorney John H. Connaughton, of Washington, D. C., chief counsel for the klan, and Attorney M. J. Hosack, Pittsburgh legal representative. The Washington attorney asked for sufficient time to obtain depositions from witnesses who reside more than 100 miles from the court district. Other witnesses residing within the 100 miles will appear personally in court.

The five defendants in the original suit are designated in it as "banished" members.

WEIRTON TIN PLANT RESUMES OPERATION

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 3.—The Weirton Steel Company's local tin plate plant resumed operations this morning after a shutdown since the middle of November. The hot mills were first started and as soon as these got under way the entire plant will be operated, giving employment to between 900 and 1,000 men. Orders on hand insure operation indefinitely, an official statement said.

WASSER IS ELECTED GREENVILLE BURGESS

GREENVILLE, Pa., Jan. 3.—William S. Wasser, president of council, was chosen burgess of Greenville by his fellow councilmen last night to succeed D. K. Callahan, burgess for many years who relinquished that office to become sheriff of Mercer county. A successor to Wasser will be chosen at the election next fall.

VENUE CHANGE FOR LENGEL

CANTON, O., Jan. 3.—(AP.)—The new trial of S. A. Lengel, former chief of police at Canton, on a charge of complicity in the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher will be held at Lisbon.

Common Pleas Judge E. W. Diehl, today sustained a motion of Lengel's counsel asking for a change of venue on the grounds that prejudice prevented Lengel securing a fair trial in Stark County. The trial date will be set later.

Lengel is now at liberty under $25,000 bond. He served approximately seven months in jail here and at the Ohio Penitentiary before the court of appeals granted a new trial.

COUNCIL REFERS POLICE PAY RAISE TO MAYOR

A request that Council grant a hearing on the subject of increases of pay for police, detectives and firemen, received by that body today from Director of Public Safety James J. Clark, was sent back to the writer with instructions to submit it to the Mayor for approval.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S REBUKE OF BIGOTS WHO INSULTED POPE
Did you ever hear of Washington's letter, dated November 5, 1775, relating to the custom of the bigots of burning the Pope in effigy? If you have not, you will be interested in knowing what the "Father of His Country" thought of this childish display of intolerance, and at the same time you will learn how great a debt of gratitude he thought the American revolutionists owed to the Catholics of Canada for their aid in fighting the common enemy. You will get the answer to this and many other questions if you will read the series of articles on "The Catholic Question in the United States," by Dr. Peter Guilday, which will commence in The Pittsburgh Catholic on January 5.

"King of Kings" Is a Fine Film Both Reverent and Artistic In Presenting Passion Play

By GEORGE SEIBEL

GEORGE SEIBEL

EVERY literary artist who has touched the story of Jesus has translated it into his own atmosphere—Renan made him a polished Frenchman, Strauss a learned German, Farrar a mid-Victorian Briton, Papini an effusive Italian, and Barbusse a militant pacifist. It was to be expected that Cecil B. DeMille would give us Jerusalem with a Hollywood flavor in "The King of Kings," his screen version of the Passion Play, which opened at the Nixon Theater yesterday. Instead, he has made a very fine and reverent picture out of the Gospel story; he has found in H. B. Warner an actor who could play the central figure with dignity and sympathy, and he has avoided anything that could offend the sensibilities of the most devout believer or incite the derision of the most hardened skeptic. It is a monumental exhibition of good taste in the treatment of material that could easily have been turned into travesty.

Warner cannot be too highly praised for the fine restraint and radiant sincerity of his impersonation. No Anton Lang could have done better. He is the Man of Sorrows, filled with divine compassion, and cloaked with divine wisdom. There is nothing theatrical or stagy in his performance—he does not act, he merely lives. The same may be said of Dorothy Cumming as Mary the Mother. The two Schildkrauts, Joseph as Judas and Rudolph as Caiaphas, do act, their parts having been elaborated in conventional stage villain style. Good work in episodic roles is done by Robert Edeson, Sidney D'Albrook, Clarence Burton, James Mason, May Robson, Lionel Belmore, and a young Pittsburgher, Kenneth Themsen, who played Lazarus.

Jeanie Macpherson, who made the scenario, has taken very few liberties with the Bible text. Some incidents, like that of Jesus repairing the child's broken doll, or the Roman legionaires fishing for coins after the tax money had been found in this fashion, are not in Matthew, Mark, Luke, or John, nor even in the Apocryphal Gospels, but they are not obtrusive or overdone. Only in the opening scenes at the home of Mary Magdalene, and in the tempest and earthquake attending the crucifixion, has the stage manager said to himself: "Here is my chance!" And he has provided the Magdalene with a team of zebras, and he has rent rocks in twain amid crashing thunder, as if he wanted to make Edward Gibbon take notice. Aside from this there is nothing spectacular or lurid, and little mere sentimentality. On the other hand, the director has done exceedingly well in providing backgrounds that help the illusion—the grotto of Gethsemane, the court of the Temple, the room of the Last Supper, the palace of Pilate and the crosses on Golgotha are scenically as near perfect as anything of this kind could be. It might be contended that there are too many lambs and white doves brought in, or that the hymns woven into the musical setting had not been composed 1900 years ago, but who will be so captious in view of the fact that "The King of Kings" as a whole is so reverent and artistic when it might have been so crude and offensive?

Some Players -:- On Stage and Screen -:- This Week

HUMPHREY BOGART plays the leading masculine role in "Saturday's Children," playing in the Pitt for a second week.

MARY FOWLER has a prominent part in "The Shanghai Gesture," starring Florence Reed, in the second week in the Alvin.

EDDIE FOY, comedian, is the headliner of the Keith-Albee vaudeville in the Davis, appearing in "The Fallen Star."

H. B. WARNER is on the screen in two theaters, Nixon, in "King of Kings," and Penn, in "Sorrell & Son," in which he is Sorrell.

HOBO SKIT TOPS HARRIS BILL

The vaudeville portion of the bill in the Harris this week is headed by a skit, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp." This has nothing to do with soldier boys marching to or from war, but concerns a number of hoboes—stage hoboes, that is—who cut up and sing around a campfire in an entertaining manner. George Hall and William Mack are the chief tramps. There are five others. Fries and Wilson are a couple of young performers, who pass out songs and comedy. John Monte and Mabel O'Brien offer the comedy skit, "Man and Wife." Mae Mack presents a group of songs. Karle and Rosien exchange a lot of chatter and end up in the air—on a trapeze. The photoplay feature is "South Sea Love," a Ralph Ince production. Patsy Ruth Miller is the star. The action is laid in New York and in the tropics. The plot concerns an over-ambitious, worldly-wise woman, who is not as wise as she thinks she is. A New Year's organlogue, a Fable film and news pictures also are presented. Yesterday's performances marked the opening of the celebration, commemorating the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Harris Amusement Company.

Warner, in Film And Stage Acts In Penn

"Sorrell and Son," picturization of the popular novel of the same title, was shown on the screen in the Penn yesterday. H. B. Warner appeared in the role of the returned war hero, who came home to find his faithless wife, departing with a war profiteer and his job gone and devoted his life to giving the son she deserted a chance to rise in the world, even though he had to go down so far in the social scale as to become a barroom porter. It is a picturization of paternal self-sacrifice and devotion, nothing much as to dramatic plot but dipping deep into the stream of human nature and bringing the best to the surface. Warner makes Captain Sorrell a living character. Mickey McBan is the son in the juvenile years which are embraced in the picture and Anna Q. Nilsson is the faithless wife. Alice Joyce, Carmel Myers and Norman Trevor have prominent roles. On the stage Dave Harmon's orchestra, Bell & Coats, singers, Van, Tyson and Van, good dancers, and Fred Martin, extraordinary eccentric dancer, appeared in "New Year Follies." Overture and an organ speciality completed the bill.

EDDIE FOY STAR IN DAVIS

That melancholy mirthmaker of former days, Eddie Foy, is the principal feature of the vaudeville bill at the Davis theater this week, and has retained his old-time power to please. His little sketch, "A Fallen Star," presents him as a stage-doorman giving good advice to a young vaudeville team—one of whom is Hal Munnis, who got his start out at Tech. Next to Foy the audiences enjoyed the Six Crackerjacks and Dave Vine. The Crackerjacks, Negro dancers, are admirable comedians as well as human 'pin' wheels, while Vine has a way of his own in telling stories, and some very good stories to tell. Herbert Faye and his company present an amusing skit in which he makes love out of a book, with Bert Morrissey prompting him. Galla-Rini and his sister have a musical arsenal, besides their concertinas, and produce a medley of melody from every variety of instrument. The Two Harlequins are acrobats of agility and daring. On the screen is a charming romance, "No Place to Go," with Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes playing the young lovers among the cannibals who find that primitive romance is not what she dreamed it. Mary Astor is a charming comedienne, and he looks young, unlike so many movie heroes. It is a lively and satisfying program.

Comedy and Song Are Featured In Gayety

"Dancing Around," the Columbia burlesque in the Gayety, presented a routine of comedy skits, songs and dance specialties at three performances yesterday, opening with a Sunday midnight show. The featured comedians, Mickey Markwood and Bobby Wilson, appeared in the half dozen or more sketches in character parts, including the inevitable comedy burlesque cops, chef and waiter. Margie Carson, whose voice is of quite pleasing quality, used it to good advantage in songs that went well with the audience. Miss Bobbie Eckard played feminine parts in the skits and sang also. The principal steppers were Eddie Ryan and Joe Ross, whose dance specialties were speedy and of a kind that merit the applause they received. Leone Reed put life into the dancing numbers in which the chorus appeared. Chick Hunter played straight parts and Murray Parker did various characterizations.

'THE SHANGHAI GESTURE' IMPRESSES IN ALVIN

Repeating the deep impression it made last week as a study of character depravity, "The Shanghai Gesture," starring Florence Reed, gave an Alvin audience an emotional shock at the opening performances of the second week in the Alvin yesterday. Miss Reed's characterization of a Chinese resort keeper, in moods ranging from the light and superficial to the deeply tragic, as she pays her "debt" on New Year's Day, reached well toward the depths of human feeling.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 3—(AP.)—A new sanity hearing for George Remus, wife slayer, was denied today by Judge William H. Lueders of Probate Court, who last week found Remus insane and ordered him committed to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima. Judge Lueders also denied bond for the former "king of bootleggers."

In the Court of Common Pleas Judge Charles S. Bell heard long arguments on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to free Remus and announced he hoped he might be able to give his decision at 10 o'clock next Thursday morning.

STANLEY COMPANY BUYS E. E. BUSINESS CORNER

PLAN TO BUILD THREE-STORY BUILDING

The J. H. Lockhart property, one of the most important business corners in East Liberty, has been reported leased to the Stanley Company of America, theater owners, for 9 years. It is understood that present plans call for a three-story brick business building to contain stores and offices.

Tenants in the property, located at the southeast corner of Penn and Center avenue, are moving out at the present time, or are making prepartions to move. The property is the same one which it was proposed partially to condemn in order to cut Center avenue through on a straight line to Frankstown avenue.

The project to widen Center avenue at this point brought a clash of opinion among the citizens of East Liberty and both sides brought the matter before City Council. No definite action was taken.

CONTROLS SEVERAL THEATERS

The Stanley Company controls several theaters in East Liberty and owns a large tract on the south side of Penn avenue between Euclid and Beatty streets on which it has secured a permit to build a $600,000 motion picture theater.

Before the proposal to widen Center avenue at its intersection with Penn avenue was brought to public attention, the property was mentioned in connection with a deal with the Loew motion picture interests. There were negotiations started, but nothing came of them.

The Lockhart property fronts 84 feet on Penn avenue and approximately 244 feet on Center avenue, and 180 feet on Shakespeare street. It is 200 feet deep, and has been spoken of as one of the finest sites for a theater in East Liberty.

Kuhn & Brothers Co., grocers, who occupy a part of the premises, have purchased the Booth and Scott properties at the southeast corner of Broad street and Sheridan avenue and are having plans prepared for a new store building to occupy 55x120 feet.

J. W. Sherrer, realtor, who occupied the corner office in the Lockhart property, has moved his place of business to 6014 Penn avenue.

Her husband, George McDonald, whom she had married recently, was sentenced to die with her.

"COURTESY," POLICE MOTTO IN OIL CITY

OIL CITY, Pa., Jan. 3.—"Courtesy to everyone, especially strangers," was the watchword passed by Mayor T. L. Blair in his first address to Oil City policemen. "We want our city to bear a good reputation and your co-operation will create good will," he told the force.

OFFER REWARD FOR BOMBERS

By Universal Service.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 3.—Rewards totaling $6,000 will be offered in an effort to bring to justice the persons who bombed the plant of the Scranton Sun, local afternoon newspaper, early Sunday.

City officials have already offered $1,000 reward and Lackawanna county authorities are to meet today on suggestion of District Attorney Harold A. Scragg to offer a reward of $5,000 additional.

Although police of the city, county and state have joined hands in running down numerous clues, no arrests had been made.

Damaged by the bomb, which was planted in the rear of the newspaper plant and which broke hundreds of windows, was estimated at $40,000. Authorities declare that the bomb was placed at the Sun building by members of a lawless band against whom the Sun had been waging a vigorous campaign.

FLEES FIRE FOR SECOND TIME

For the second time in two months, Dr. M. Conti, residing on the second floor of 550 Larimer avenue, was forced to lead his wife and baby daughter down a fire escape early today when flames again swept up the stairway of the three-story brick structure. The fire started in the basement beneath a confectionery store conducted by Matta Miele who estimated his loss at $7,000. Dr. Conti's damage was estimated at $3,000. Five other families in the building were not endangered.

MUSSOLINI TO CREATE OWN OPPOSITION

LONDON, Jan. 3.—An official socialist opposition party in Italy will be created by Mussolini shortly, according to a special dispatch dated from the Italian frontier. The Facist sponsored opposition will be called the "National Socialist Party." It is believed that the new manoeuver of the duce is aimed at diverting the sympathies of the Italian workers from exiled socialist leaders.

Missing Pilot Lands At Hunting Lodge

DUBOIS, Pa., Jan. 3.—H. G. Smith, air mail pilot, missing since Sunday night, is safe. Guided by two fox trappers, he came out of the rough, wooded country near Medix Run, 30 miles east of Dubois, late yesterday. He had bested the raging blizzard in which he was caught Sunday night, after leaving Cleveland on an eastbound trip, by making a miraculous landing in the dark on a little clearing at the Red Top Hunting Lodge. The plane was not badly damaged.

After landing, with the temperature at 9 degrees below zero, he spent the night in the hunting lodge, pacing the floor to keep warm, since he had no matches with which to light a fire.

The trappers came upon him as he was making his way back to civilization.

MAY'S—GREATER PITTSBURGH'S OWN DRUG STORES

DRIPPING YEAR INDICATED BY RECORDS

Compilation of city police and government prohibition enforcement records will indicate that Pittsburgh and adjacent territory were rather "wet" during the year of 1927, if the number of arrests made can be accepted as a barometer of the "wet and dry" situation.

The police records will record the arrest of more than 35,000 persons listed on police station dockets as "drunk," and the annual government report will record more than 4,000 arrests in 3,996 raids in the division under the jurisdiction of Administrator John D. Pennington.

Statisticians in each of the law enforcement organizations are preparing reports showing activities in enforcing the prohibition laws. Despite the attacks made by the prohibition agents of the government on the sources of contraband liquor supply, in which many hundreds of thousands of gallons of contraband liquor were seized, moonshine whisky is plentiful and placed on the "market" cheaper than any time since the Volstead act became effective.

In some sections of the city the manufacturers and distributors are fighting among themselves and are underbidding each other to such an extent that moonshine whisky quotations have declined greatly from prices formerly asked.

The beer situation apparently is under better control, as very little of the high test variety, other than home brew, is finding its way into saloons and other places for public consumption.

Sure Way to Stop Night Coughing

A Prescription that Ends Night Coughs in 15 Minutes

Persistent night coughing is usually due to causes which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. One swallow is all that's needed. If it fails, get your money back. No chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe for children. Equally good for sore throat, for which purpose it is far superior to gargles. Ask for Thoxine, 35c, 60c and $1.00. At all druggists.

Your Boy
Don't Let Him Grow Used to Laxatives!

The complete comfort so many adults derive from calcium should turn a parent's thought to its perfect properties for children. A mother who thinks twice—or thinks at all—will not use harsher means of regulating a growing boy or girl!

For the same reason your bowels are benefited by calcium wafers, they are the very thing for a youngster. A tiny wafer or two at first sign of sluggishness—will end it. If the condition has been chronic, this mild corrective will tend to break it up. Calcium wafers will wean a child away from all need for any laxative.

A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium, and the decided benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them—the test size for pocket is 10c. Or the family size, 60c.

Overfeeding the Baby Brings Many Ills

DR. COPELAND

WHEN you see a glutton at meat and marvel at the quantities he consumes, you realise that the stomach must have enormous capacity. It takes years for this growing and stretching process to be completed.

At birth the stomach is very small. Its capacity is from one ounce to an ounce and a half. That is, it will hold from four to six tablespoonfuls.

The baby is month old before the stomach is big enough to hold two ounces. By the end of the third month the capacity has become about four times what it was at birth.

I am telling you about this so the mother may have a better idea of the limited quantity of milk the baby can take. It will be easier to understand, too, why overfeeding results in vomiting. With limted capacity there is not room for such quantities as the over-generous mother may encourage her infant to take.

The experts may differ in the less important details of infant feeding, but they are all agreed that it is a mistake to overfeed. The surest test is the steady increase in the child's weight. On this account the scales are important. By their use you make sure that the baby is prospering.

Frequent vomiting is a bad sign. Of course there are many other causes than overcrowding for this symptom. But you can see that the tiny stomach can hold but little. The contents will be thrown up—not only the excess, but perhaps most of the rest as well. In consequence the child will actually be deprived of the proper nourishment.

Among other causes for vomiting we find the taking of excessive amounts of fat or sugar. The breast-fed child will not suffer this way, but in preparing the bottle food it may be made too rich in cream or milk sugar.

It is very important to feed the infant correctly. To this end a lot of good sense must be used. The young mother will need to talk it over with the family doctor or the nurse.

You know babies are not like a lot of bottles cast in the same mold. In short, they are not all alike. Each individual baby must be handled according to its own needs. This means that a special mixture of the feeding elements must be chosen for the particular needs of your particular baby.

The feedings must be freshly prepared and perfectly kept. The ingredients, particularly the milk, must be the very best. The utensils and the hands of those who mix the food must be surgically clean.

These are a few hints which come to my mind regarding your baby, its stomach and what you put in it. Most of the ailments of human beings, little and big, can be traced to wrong feeding. Keep your child well by keeping its little stomach sweet and properly fed.

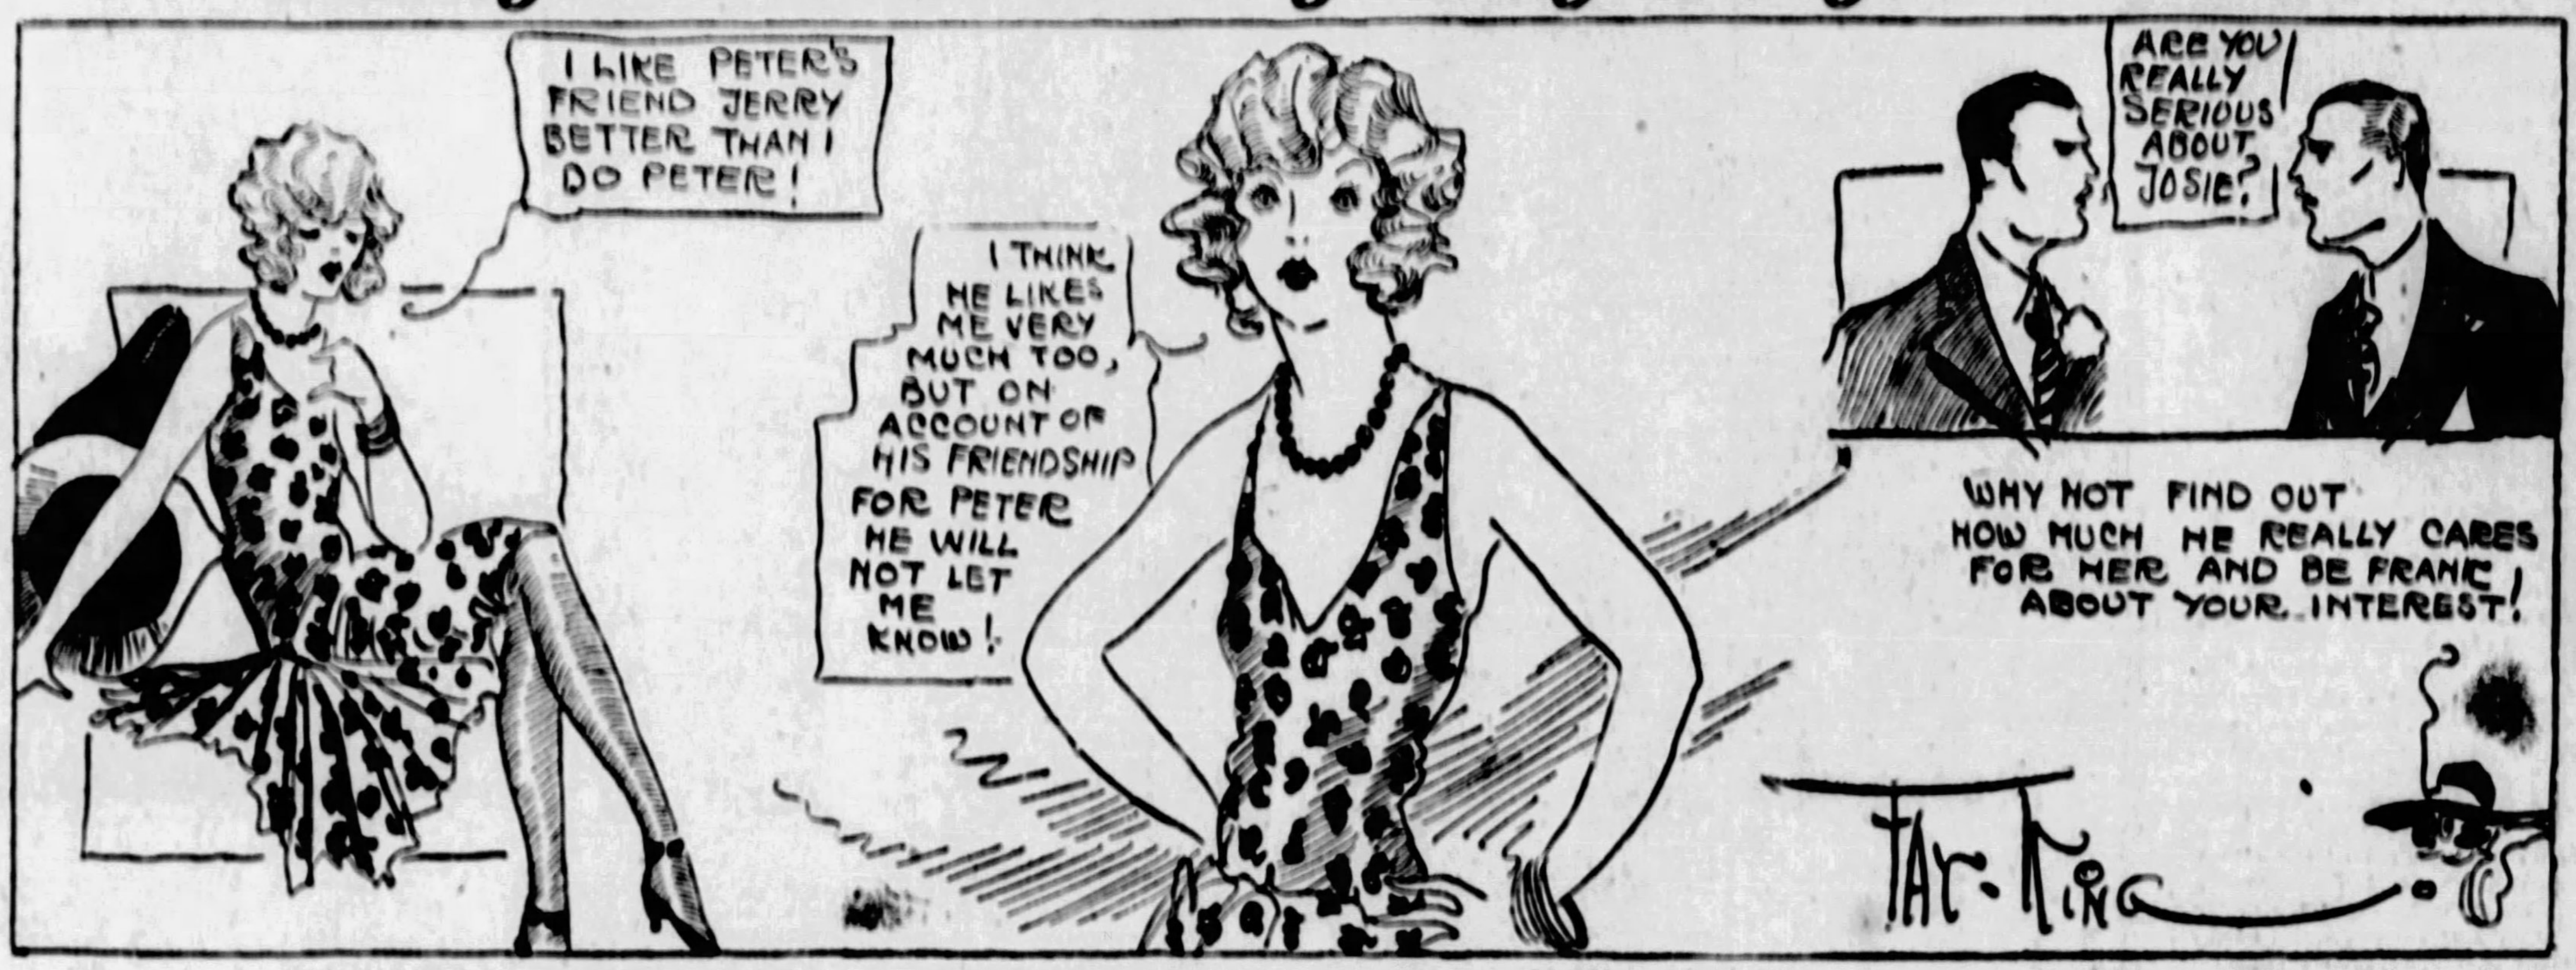
Change of Heart Brings Fay King's Advice



I LIKE PETER'S FRIEND JERRY BETTER THAN I DO PETER!
I THINK HE LIKES ME VERY MUCH TOO, BUT ON ACCOUNT OF HIS FRIENDSHIP FOR PETER HE WILL NOT LET ME KNOW!
ARE YOU REALLY SERIOUS ABOUT JOSIE?
WHY NOT FIND OUT HOW MUCH HE REALLY CARES FOR HER AND BE FRANK ABOUT YOUR INTEREST!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

ALTHOUGH a broken engagement is a sad thing, still it is better to break an engagement if you have had a change of heart.

Supposing a girl finds herself in love with a friend of the man she is engaged to. She believes he is also in love with her, but that he will not declare himself on account of his loyalty to his friend. What should she do?

Well, naturally, she cannot encourage him and remain engaged.

The wisest thing would be for her to frankly tell this man that she is engaged to she feels she would like to break their engagement, at least temporarily. That she feels she would like to be free for a time; that it need not change their friendship, but that to be fair to him she must confess she would like to postpone their engagement.

She should return his ring and let her friends know that the engagement is, at least, temporarily off. This would leave her free to accept the attentions of his friend and others.

If no engagement exists and a man finds himself attracted to the girl his friend is devoted to, he should be frank with the friend and ask him if he is really serious toward this girl.

He should tell him he is asking because he, too, admires her, and if his friend does not object he would like to entertain her also.

If they are both in love with her, he might even go so far as to say in that case he means to win her if he can.

No fair-minded person can hold a grudge against one who is honest about these things.

It is better to have a change of heart before marriage than after.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

FLAMING MIDDLE AGE

IT IS high time that the Younger Generation began setting a good example for the Older Generation!

* * *

It is positively startling, the way the Older Generation is stepping out and following in the footsteps of flaming youth. Dad and Mother have ceased to be shocked at Son and Daughter, and are beginning to wonder what they are MISSING!

HELEN ROWLAND

Many a married pair, who have lived in happy, unconscious "bondage" for twenty years, and who might have jogged along contentedly for another twenty, are jolted out of their complacency by the example of their "emancipated" children, and decide to have a fling at the "new freedom" before they die.

* * *

The first thing you know, Dad is doing bending exercises, putting tonic on his hair, laying in a stock of passionate socks and glancing at his blonde stenographer with a new light in his eye.

* * *

And Mother is running around to beauty parlors, bargaining for a face-lift, wearing her skirts to her knees and learning the new dance steps from a satin-haired gigolo—all in a desperate effort to "hold" Him, whom she once thought as secure as her back teeth!

* * *

Not until Dad feels a twinge of his old rheumatism or some young gold-digger throws a scare into him, and Mother finds that her bridge-work has failed to charm some young gigolo, do they come to their senses, and realize that what is sauce for the gosling may be PTOMAINE for the old goose and gander!

* * *

You MAY teach an old horse new tricks, but you can't be sure that he won't break his neck trying them out.

But, don't blame the oldsters. It is flaming youth that has set the pace for the wild, wild ways of torrid middle-age.

* * *

Youth has been in the saddle a good many years; but now Middle Age is up—and leaving Youth at the post!

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, January 4.

Man is potentially a force for good or evil, and it is only in knowing himself that he rises superior to his environment.—Aston.

THE planetary configurations for this day may be read as of rather minor importance. It is possible that there may be a change or a journey, probably of an unexpected nature, but this may be in connection with social activities, domestic or feminine affairs. The change may bring benefits and affairs generally assume a pleasant prospect.

Those whose birthday it is may not have a very active year in business, but personal matters will be pleasant and prosperous and may involve travel or change of environment, and these will be beneficial.

A child born on this day, although being clever, inventive and original, may lean toward the finer occupations, such as music, art, painting. Its social and artistic tendencies may bring pleasure as well as profit. It should be very popular and well liked.

Notable Nativity: Sir Isaac Pitman, shorthand developer.

Turn Hair Dark With Sage Tea
By JEAN MACON

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but waht delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Heartbroken

DEAR MISS GALE:

I wrote to you before and think you give splendid advice, at least you did to me. I stated before that I agreed with you on the drinking, smoking and petting questions. I have a girl friend who is liked much by everybody, but she does not agree with you on smoking and petting. Should I run around with this girl, Miss Gale? Well, here is my question: I liked and still like a certain boy. He used to sit right in front of another girl. This girl liked him and I thought that he liked her, but later I went with him and he said that he loved me and would never love another girl and that he never did like this girl very well. One day she said something and it made me angry at her and this boy also. So she changed her seat and he said he wouldn't sit by me if I didn't make up with him (which I didn't) so he changed his seat right across the aisle from her. Miss Gale, do you think he liked her and wanted to sit beside her? Weeks passed, and then two months went by and still I was angry at both of them. Incidents happened sometimes that I almost had to speak to him, but I didn't, as I always caught myself just in time. Then something happened that I just had to speak to him and now we are friends again, but do you think, Miss Gale, that I did ther right thing by making up with him? The other night he told me he loved me again for the eleventh time. Do you think I should believe him? I hope you will sympathize with me, Miss Gale. Do you think I am too young? I am 18 years of age. Do you think this girl is between us? I hope you can only say she isn't between us. Miss Gale, do you think I am right?

HEARTBROKEN.

This boy must like you, my dear, or he wouldn't tell you so frequently. However, you are both too young to be in love. You were right in speaking to him again. It is childish to "stop speaking."

Undecided

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am 18 years old and have been keeping steady company with a young man for about a year and a half. Almost three months ago I met another young man whom I like very much and he has asked me for steady company. I have never told either one of them of my going with anyone. The latter one I speak of always wants to come to see me on Sundays. Sometimes I break a date with this other fellow by telling him I am going away, in the meantime I go out with the other one. I am not very much in love with the steady fellow, but would hate to lose his friendship. Now, Miss Gale, will you please tell me if I am doing right and if not please tell me what to do.

UNDECIDED.

Neither of these boys has the right to dictate your friendships, so why give up either? Be perfectly frank about it. If you like one better than the other, then see him, but you need not give up the other unless you are engaged.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

DANGER DAYS

Sniffles— warning signals that resistance is low

NATURE has so many ways of warning you when the health of your child is in danger. But you'll recognize her signals in an instant: a fretful disposition, a tongue that is white, a finicky appetite, and the most common danger signal of them all — a tiny sniffling cold.

Well children do not sniffle! A sniffle is a sign that bodies are not strong enough to fight the germs which bring on colds. And bodies lacking strength to fight off colds have not the strength to fight the germs which bring disease!

The germs in the air know how to fight your boys and girls. Give your children the reserve energy to fight back!

Healthy bodies are safe bodies

Health comes from sunshine, fresh air, sound sleep, vigorous exercise, and above all — nourishing food. The foods your children eat are the building materials of which their growing bodies are made. Healthy bodies cannot be made of poor materials. Active, growing bodies need more than plenty of food! There are Danger Days ahead. They need the right kind of food. It must contain the vital elements for making strong bones, sound teeth, firm flesh, red blood, and worlds of energy for tomorrow. Who knows — tomorrow may be the Danger Day! If any single vital element is missing from the food of boys and girls, no amount of fresh air, exercise or sleep can supply it. What are these vital elements? Where can they be found? Every mother owes it to her children to know.

Whole wheat builds resistance

When nature conceived the grain of wheat, she created a spark of life. She crowded into the whole wheat berry the very food elements essential to life and growth. In Ralston, the whole wheat cereal, children get the things which bodies must have to fortify them against the Danger Days to come — for none of the vital elements of whole wheat have been removed in making Ralston.

Ralston will give your youngsters the calcium and phosphorus for building sturdy bones and hard white teeth — the proteins that will make firm solid flesh — the iron that makes red-blooded boys and girls—carbohydrates for energy—the bran that insures normal elimination—and the vitamins of life and growth.

Let Danger Days come — the Ralston boys and girls will be ready for them!

Use the Danger Days Coupon

We have a most important new booklet for you, that every mother should read. It tells all about Danger Days — how you can recognize them — how you can fortify your boys and girls against them. It is 32 pages fully illustrated. Send for it. It may mean warding off many Danger Days!

The coupon will bring your complimentary copy, and also a unique novelty for the children called the "Magic Blackboard."

DIES IN LEAP FROM HOSPITAL

Woman Patient Jumps to Death

Leaping from a fifth floor window of the Allegheny General Hospital at 4 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Clara Watt, 39, residing near Apollo, crashed to death on the roof of a third-floor sun porch.

Mrs. Watt, a heart trouble patient in the hospital since December 10, was alone in the room when she leaped. By the time she was returned to the hospital she was dead. A fractured skull and internal injuries caused death.

According to Dr. G. Walter Zulauf, superintendent of the hospital, Mrs. Watt called a nurse to her private room on the fifth floor and asked that the door be closed. The nurse complied. Five minutes later the nurse heard a crash and found the door of Mrs. Watt's room locked. The body was found on the roof of the sun porch about 25 feet below. After the door had been unlocked there was evidence that Mrs. Watt had used the telephone to break the glass in the window, through which she leaped.

HONOR LOCAL ACCOUNTANT

Pittsburgh is one of 32 cities in the United States and Cuba which are represented in a newly organized nation wide partnership of accountants which enters the professional field with the opening of the new year. This city's representation is brought about by the inclusion of O. G. Richter of Richter & Co., as one of the partners of the new firm which will be known as Pace, Gore & McLaren. Mr. Richter's local firm retains its identity and will continue to practice as Richter & Co.

The new national partnership was organized last month at Chicago. Nationalization of business is given by Mr. Richter as the chief reason for the formation of the new partnership. Many industries and other businesses have branches, factories and sales offices in a number of states. Handling their accounting and auditing work was becoming increasingly difficult, involving dispatch of staff accountants to distant points.

It became necessary for some accountants, with offices in only one or two cities, to decline engagements extending into several states.

The main offices of the partnership are in New York. Establishment of offices in Canada, in several European cities, and in South America, is among the early plans of the new partnership.

In addition to the 32 partners, there are 16 other accounting firms which, although they have not taken on the status of partners, are members of the Affiliated Firms of Accountants, which is co-operating with Pace, Gore & McLaren in handling accounting engagements. Many of these firms have offices in more than one city, so that the list of cities in which the new firm will have representation, will be 62.

The members of the firm of Richter & Co. are, in addition to Mr. Richter, I. C. Snyder and H. B. Scott. All are certified public accountants, members of the American Society of Certified Public Accountants and of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Housewives Can Buy, But Can They Sell?

If the man of the house were left with the buying of household goods and foods, would the home be run economically?

Mother would say "absolutely no." And father would agree good-naturedly.

The fact is, housewives do know how to buy economically.

But can they sell with equal profit to themselves? How many housewives are wasting space on *"White Elephants" that clutter up the attic, the cellar, the storage closets?

And yet, these same economical housewives know that these articles would be very useful to some "invisible" neighbor.

Maybe these housewives do not know how to market their "White Elephants," do not know how to reach the "invisible audience." Then here's how:

Visit the Sun-Tele Want Ad Corner—FIFTH and MARKET

Place a prepaid ad for three consecutive insertions; sell the "White Elephants" and in addition

BABY DIES AT FIEND VICTIM RITES

State Troopers Ignore Walsh, Nab 1927 Tag Users

'ARREST 150 IN HOLIDAY SWOOP

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh's two-day grace for the use of 1927 automobile license tags was laughed at by state highway police who invaded the city yesterday and by last night had bagged more than 150 motorists.

Eight members of the patrol stationed themselves in West Liberty avenue at the entrance of the Liberty tunnels, and seized by the score motorists who were thanking the local police for their leniency in permitting the use of 1927 license tags.

Those arrested were given notice to appear for hearings before Justice of the Peace Chester A. Wyke of Bridgeville. The squad of highway patrolmen worked under Corporals A. D. Bowman and George Donish from Washington, Pa. Other highways leading into the city were guarded likewise, it was said. Motorists who upon being arrested pointed out the extension granted by Walsh were told that "Superintendent Walsh had no authority to extend the time."

BLAZE FORCES GIRL TO FLEE

Elizabeth Atkins, 18, alone in her home at 1404 Western avenue, was forced to flee at 3:45 o'clock this morning, when fire, starting in the basement, ate its way through the first floor. Firemen responding to a still alarm, extinguished the blaze with $50 damage.

PHILLIPS AGAIN DENIES HE WILL OPPOSE REED

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Congressman Thomas W. Phillips today reiterated his denial that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate. In a statement in which he referred to a report from Philadelphia that he was a candidate for the nomination, Mr. Phillips said that "on the contrary, I have stated repeatedly that I had never so much as seriously considered being a candidate. Under no circumstances would I oppose Senator David A. Reed for the office."

Prof. Schmidt joined the Communist party in 1918. He is regarded more as a scholar than as a politician.

Warning that stormy sessions are ahead in the commission rooms was not long withheld. Baby Dies at Funeral Of Fiend Victim

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 3.—Tragedy, that so brutally interrupted the life of Thelma Young, 17, murdered by a fiend near her home here last Thursday, stalked her almost to the grave yesterday.

As the 6-months-old daughter of Mrs. George Hough nestled in its mother's arms at the funeral services being held for Thelma it was suddenly stricken and died. Physicians said bursting of a cerebral abscess had been the cause.

The baby had been named Thelma, for the murdered girl, who was an intimate friend of Mrs. Hough. Its death, coming in the midst of last rites for the slain girl, deepened the pall of sorrow hanging over the Young family.

About 100 persons braved zero weather to attend the funeral services, held in the home of Thelma's grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Young.

Determination of authorities to leave no stone unturned in their search for Thelma's slayer cropped out at the funeral services. Dominick Grisolio, the Italian glass-worker, who found the mutilated body of the girl across an alley from his home, was there in custody of Chief of County Detectives William B. Dinsmore and Sergt. William Jones of the state police.

BELIEVE HE KNOWS MORE

While Grisolio never has been actually under arrest, authorities seem inclined to believe he knows more about the crime than he has told them. William Grisolio, a cousin of Dominick, who came here recently from Philadelphia, also has been questioned in this connection.

Belief that the Italian, influenced by the evident tragedy of the funeral services for the girl, might reveal something as yet not told to the authorities, led Dinsmore to take him to view last rites for her.

Fred Drew, Negro, arrested on suspicion in the girl's death, has been definitely cleared of connection with it, but is being held on other charges resulting from a confession.

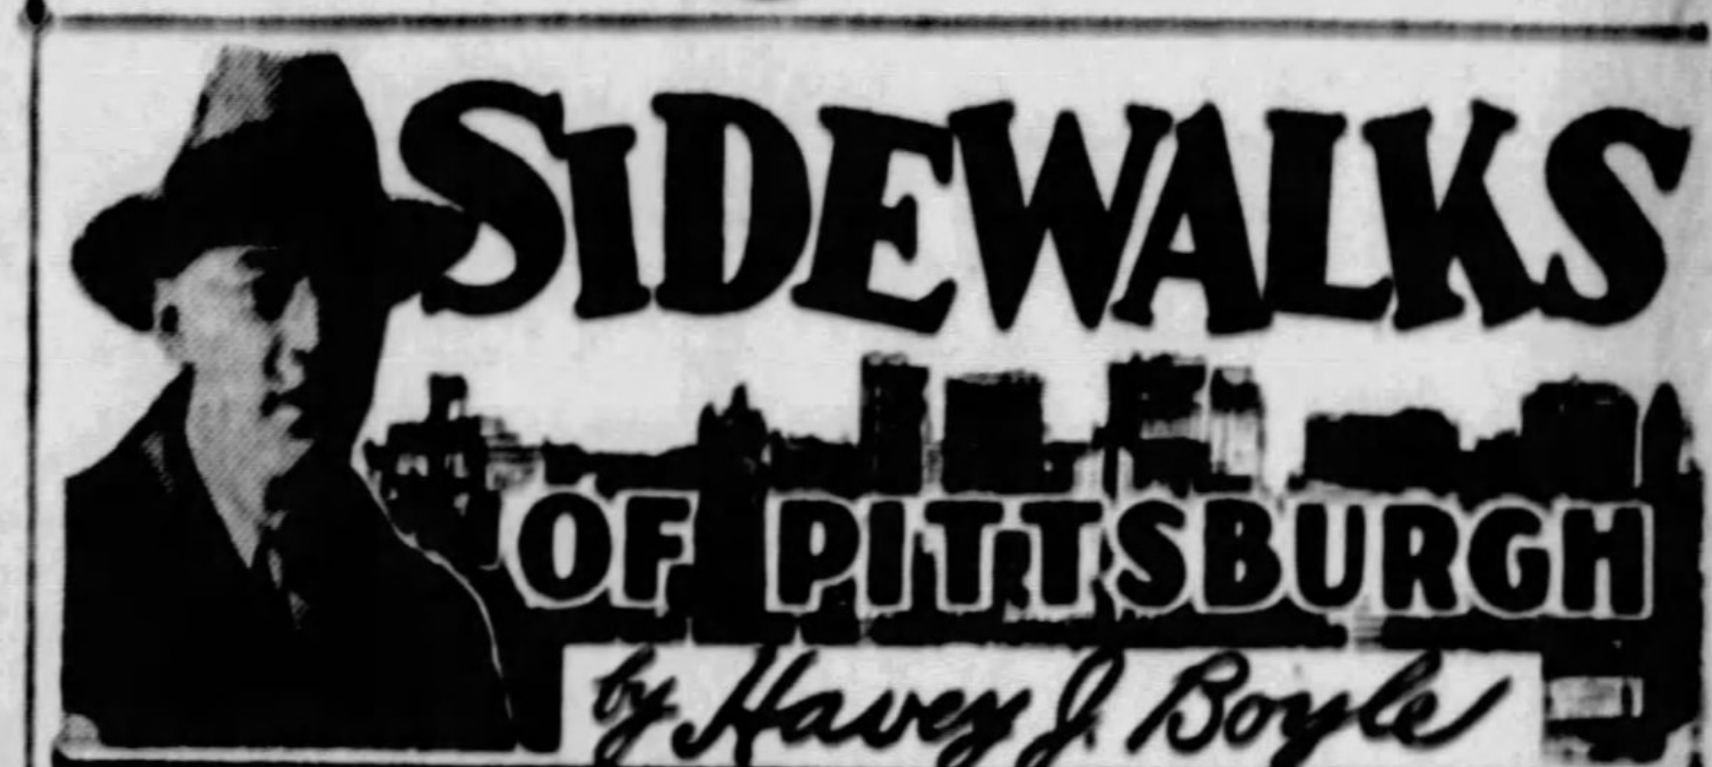
PROMISE ARREST

Detectives said they had another suspect under surveillance and might make an arrest soon. Their questioning of the Grisolios was to be continued.

As a result of the brutal murder of the Young girl and attempts to assault other women here in the last few months, an effort will be made to secure additional police for Washington, Mayor Robert H. McBurney declared last night.

MORE JAILED, FEWER MARRIED IN BEAVER

BEAVER, Jan. 3.—A decrease in marriage licenses and an increase in county jail prisoners featured Beaver county statistics for 1927. During the year 1,008 licenses were issued against 1,017 in 1926, while in 1927 1,371 prisoners were registered at the jail against 1,186 in 1926.



"DON'T put off until tomorrow what you can do today," reads an old motto which will come in handy for those who already are figuring on breaking their New Year's resolutions. It is only the weak willed that have recourse to the New Year's resolutions. The strong minded man will quit a bad habit anytime he chooses. That is why I have postponed breaking off smoking until the third of June, 1931.

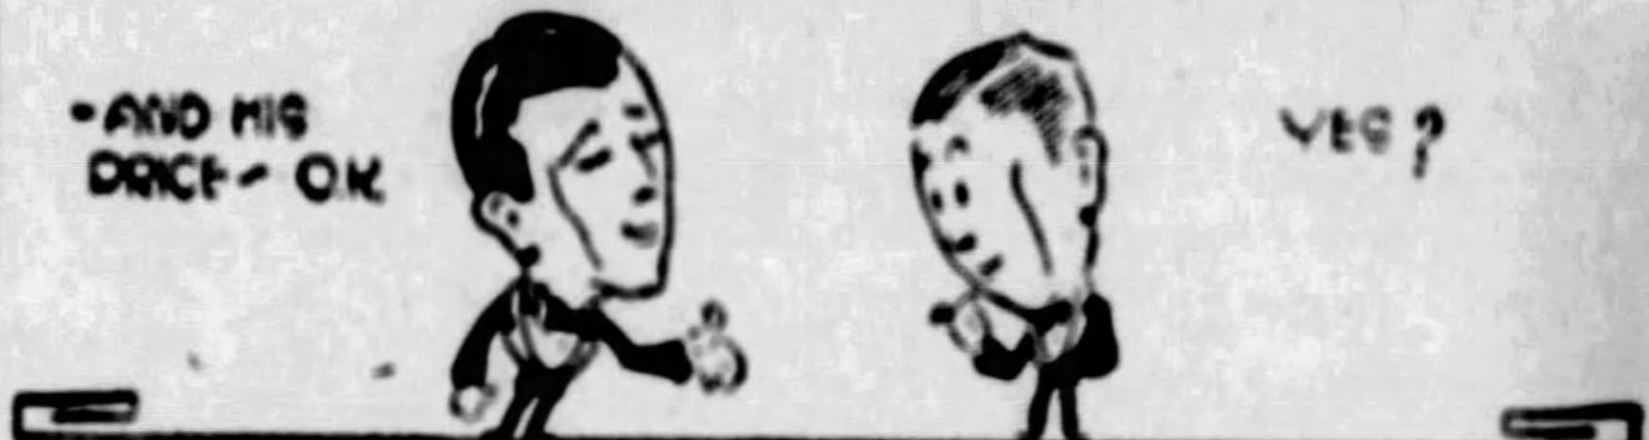
EXPERTS are at work on the documents submitted, but the first report is quite exciting: Ernie Roser, well-known former reporter, says he was with the man who wrote "Sweet Adeline," at the time the germ of this drinking song entered the brain of the composer.

DISAPPEARING from the streets are the hurdy gurdies or the organs on wheels. It used to be a common sight to see two Italians—one pushing and the other pulling an organ, stopping at every couple of squares to give one of the finest performances imaginable. At first the organs were operated by hand. Later came automatic organs. An interesting addition, too, was a cage of parrots which, for a consideration, would dip their bills into envelopes, containing forecasts of the purchaser's future in such enormous matters as finance and love.

GONE ARE THE DAYS

The passing of the saloon presaged the passing of the organs. There are still a few doing business, but they are rarities now. Along with this musical entertainment for us hoi-polloi went, too, the little German bands. The war put the final crusher on them. They endeavored to make a come-back after hostilities were over, but they couldn't make the riffle. The German band music, if one may presume to criticise in matters of art, was inferior to the organ music. The German band passed out in those war days when there was great agitation that sauer kraut be henceforth called liberty cabbage.

ONE of the strangest jobs is that of the young man about town, who does not have to do anything but wear good clothes, go to the best shows, attend the best cabarets, go to the college dances. For this he gets all expenses paid and a fair salary. He works for a tailor. Adroitly, he leads the conversation around the clothes and then puts across the big punch for this particular tailor.



"FOLLOWING up the philosophy of your friend on divorce," writes a contributor, "note this: Every radio station every night, every picture theater every night, every dance orchestra every night, every dinner program every night, every talking machine every night, every home piano every night, every girl about the house or office, every young man on the streets every day and every night—all are wheezing, whistling, screaming, crooning, squealing, tooting, banging, drooling, dripping, resounding, humming, zooming, singing, and whispering just one tune: 'My Blue Heaven.' And why? Because the words say: 'Just Molly and Me and the Baby.' Watcha mean, divorce?"

JOE TAGGART of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, besides reporting that Mr. Hamberger runs a butcher shop on the North Side also reports this one: "Is golf a Scotch game?" "Oh, no, it can also be played with rye." Mr. Hamberger running a meat shop is what is known as a natural.

THERE is a former street car conductor in Pittsburgh who makes around $20,000 a year. Recently his employer gave him a nice little bonus of $25,000. He is superintendent of a big office building. Capable and energetic, he got a great chance and made good.

COOMBS NAMED HEAD BY BEAVER COMMISSIONERS

BEAVER, Jan. 2.—Arthur W. Coombs, Woodlawn, was re-elected chairman of the board of Beaver county commissioners. Other members are W. O. Coulter, Beaver Falls, and Walter Goettman, Brighton township. Joseph S. Edwards, Rochester, was appointed chief clerk and Hamilton Brown, Aliquippa, jail warden, with George D. Copeland and William J. Hurton, both of Rochester, assistants.

Despite His Protests Lily Visits Pat's Home and Meets the Family

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Lily Lexington is the spoiled and only daughter of the Cyrus Lexingtons, who have always lived far beyond their means. She realizes her highest ambition when she becomes engaged to Staley Drummond, a rich bachelor older than herself. Downtown to meet her chum, Sue Cain, she is attracted by Pat France, a taxi driver. She asks him to drive her home. On the way she learns that he is cab-driving to raise money to finance a new kind of piston ring he has invented. Pat tells her that he is selling the cab to raise money for the piston ring, and she miserably wonders how she'll see him after that. Staley tells her the age-difference between them doesn't matter and tenderly kisses her. Lily realizes that she hates his love-making. Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement just as Lily's made up her mind to tell Staley that she doesn't want to marry him, and she feels like a mouse in a trap—helpless. The Lexingtons decide to get a chauffeur, who turns out to be Pat. Lily confesses to him she loves him. Lily suggests to Staley that they break their engagement, but he refuses, although he's angry with her and suspicious of her friendship with Pat.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

LILY went into the hall, slipped into her coat, and quietly let herself out by the front door.

The night was black and warm, and filled with the scent of the lilacs on the lawn under the lighted windows of the big house. The sky was powdered with stars, but there was no moon. It was a lovers' night, and no mistake.

Lily tiptoed down the driveway to the back of the house. There was a light in the room over the garage, but as she looked up at the windows it went out. . . . Pat was coming down the stairs! She could hear the quick tread of his feet, and then he was close to her in the soft darkness.

"Pat!" she whispered, and slipped her hand into his. His palm was hard and calloused, but for Lily it tingled with magic and thrilled her as no other person's touch ever had—or ever would again.

"I'm going with you," she said to him. "Down to your house." She could barely see him in the darkness, and she felt rather than saw him shake his head. "You can't," he said. "I don't want you to."

"Please, Pat—I want to meet your mother and your father," the girl whispered. She was in his arms now, holding them tight around her, and her mouth was almost on his as she spoke. "Please take me—please—"

They argued in undertones for a moment or two longer. But in the end Lily got her way. She always did get her own way, somehow or other.

* * *

The France family was at supper, in the kitchen of their little house.

They always ate in the kitchen, except on Sundays.

It was a big room and wonderfully cheerful, with its white paint, its shelves of blue-and-white dishes, its pots of flowers on the window sills, and its spotless curtains.

The table stood at one end of the room, drawn up beside the windows. It was covered with white cotton, ironed until it looked like glossy linen, and the dishes and glass and silver upon it sparkled.

Behind the coffee pot of polished aluminum sat Mrs. France, the small, old-fashioned woman whom Lily had seen that morning in the grocery store. At the other end sat Pat's father—a fine-looking man, from whom Pat "got his looks" undoubtedly. He had the same straight, blunt nose, the same well-cut mouth, the same deep-blue eyes and crisp hair—only his was silver where Pat's was dark brown, almost black.

Between her mother and father sat Florence, the youngest of the family. Florence was blue-eyed and dark-haired, too. She was what she herself called "snappy-looking."

Her hair was cut in a most up-to-date boyish bob, her face was beautifully made up with coral color—pale coral for her cheeks and deep coral-pink for her lips. Her clothes were lustrous black satin, and she had made them herself—a skirt of satin with a jumper to match. There were big imitation pearls around her neck, there were big steel buckles on her slippers and the thinnest of gunmetal stockings upon her slim legs. Florence's ambition was to look like a photograph in a fashion journal, and she had just about achieved it.

"Florence," her mother said to her, "I wish you'd change that dress when you come from work. It makes me nervous to see you around the kitchen in anything so nice."

Florence helped herself to a sweet pickle and a piece of hot corned beef from the platter in the middle of the table. "This dress cost me only $10—just what I paid for the material," she answered, in a low voice that had deep, throaty tones in it—a singularly soothing voice. "And besides, I'm going to the pictures tonight with Jerry MacMichael. He'll be here at eight and it's quarter after seven now."

Mrs. France nodded, looking up at the Seth Thomas clock above the sink, and then at the empty chair across the table from Florence.

"Pat was sure he would be home at six-thirty to have supper with us," she said. "Dear me, I don't like this business of his living away from home. I miss him. . . . If he's got to be forever tinkering with automobiles, I wish he'd stayed with Roy Jetterson. He could get home to at least one meal a day then, anyway."

There was a knock on the kitchen door. And then before anyone could reach it, it was pushed open and Pat came in with Lily Lexington.

The three people at the table were speechless with surprise as they looked up at her. In the bright light from the electric bulb above the sink, her hair shone like gold and her gray-green eyes like jewels. On her left hand a big diamond sparkled, and there was a big diamond brooch fastened to the front of her black chiffon dress.

Mrs. France knew almost nothing about furs, but Florence's quick, clever eyes took in the two silver foox skins around her neck. "They must have cost six or seven hundred dollars apiece," said Florence to herself, even before she began to wonder who this girl with Pat was.

From the furs came the familiar fragrance of a perfume that Florence knew cost $10 an ounce—a spicy fragrance called "Arabian Nights." And from her fingers dangled a gold mesh bag, a gold vanity case with a little gold cigaret case attached to it by a red cord.

Everything about her was the best of its kind, and very, very smart, as Florence France saw at a glance. She looked like money with a capital M!

"Now, where on earth do you suppose Pat picked up a girl like that?" she asked herself, and could find no answer to her question. She was simply thunderstruck.

Her puzzled eyes went to Pat's face. He was looking from his mother to his father, and smiling. "Mother and Dad," he said, after a little pause, "I want you to meet Miss Lexington. And Florence—My sister, Florence, Miss Lexington." He performed the introduction awkwardly, fiddling with his hat as he spoke.

Mrs. France got up from the table and shook Lily by both hands. But her blue eyes were on her tall son's face. "Pat," she said, "how could you surprise us like this?—bringing home company on a night when we're having a boiled dinner! And me without even a white apron on—and your father in his shirt sleeves!"

WHIPPET PRICES TO BE GIVEN AT MEETING

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 3.—Following the statement of John N. Willys, president of Willys Overland, Inc., that the perfected Whippet would be announced this week at the lowest prices ever made on any Willys Overland product, a meeting of branch managers, distributors and dealers for the organization has been called.

The meeting will open in Toledo tonight and Mr. Willys personally will announce the new prices. More than 1,000 dealers, distributors and branch managers will be present.

It is already known that the Whippet will be the only light car on the market priced at a figure close enough to the lowest now made on any car to place it in a directly competitive position.

Details of the improved Whippet reveal new body types, added equipment and a wider range of colors. The factory now is in a position to build 2,000 chassis a day at peak capacity. Shipments on the Whippet have been under way for several days and cars will be available for delivery January 6.

Commenting on the new prices, Mr. Willys says:

"Manufacturing economies worked out in the Willys Overland plant have put the company in a position to meet any price-move which may be made by any manufacturer. There can be no monopoly in the light car field. Our costs for materials, productive labor and our manufacturing overhead are as low as any. The quality of the Whippet will be maintained in every detail of material, design and workmanship."

ELECT OFFICERS IN BOROUGHS

A score of boroughs and townships last night held their first meetings with the new officials, who were elected in the November polls.

The newly-elected Stowe township commissioners started business by firing the entire police force, including Chief William A. Duffy. Thomas Saunders was elected to succeed Duffy. A political upset was given by Chief Duffy as the reason for the upheaval. The new officers of the board elected include Howard Miller, chairman; J. B. Duerr, vice chairman, and Jess McLaughlin, secretary.

Burgess Walter P. Berner of Sharpsburg objected when the newly organized council voted to oust his son, Clarence Berner, as motorcycle patrolman. Charles Schrenk and Richard H. Morrissey were the two new members of council and Edward S. Michalowski was named council president over Morrissey.

Other reorganization meeting elections:

CHURCH DRIVE STARTED

Because of the cold a meeting scheduled at Imperial last night in the county-wide visitation Evangelism campaign was called off, but meetings were held at Wilmerding, Sharpsburg, Glassport and Clairton. Meetings will be held tonight at Beechview, Pitcairn and Tarentum. At most places this week the time is being devoted to instructing the workers, and the visitations, in which 10,000 are to take part, will not start until next Sunday. But the campaign has been completed at Sheraden, where 200 new members were obtained for the eight participating churches, and at Bakerstown where 125 new members were obtained for six churches.

RISKED LIVES FOR REFUGEES

AGNES EVON, JENNY RYAN, ELSIE KIMBALL, DOROTHY STRATTON

These four American girls have been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal of the Near East Relief: Agnes Evon, of Pittsfield, Mass., was heroine of the Smyrna disaster. As chief nurse of the American relief units she was responsible for the health of more than 500,000 refugees. Jenny Ryan, of Malone, N. Y., was decorated for three years of daring work in Turkey, during the period of massacres and deportations, when her work involved repeatedly risking her own life in a relief work which claimed nearly a score of American workers and untold thousands of the persecuted minorities in Turkey. Elsie Kimball, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., spent five years in the midst of starvation and typhus in Russia. Dorothy Stratton, of Norwalk, Conn., is credited with saving thousands of lives in the Armenian earthquakes of a year ago.

BAD CHRISTMAS NEWS

MISS EDYTHE KOEHLER

First knowledge that her brother, Fred Koehler, may have been lost with the Grayson plane, Dawn, came to Miss Edythe Koehler of Los Angeles, on Christmas Day, when she picked up a newspaper and read his name in the list of the missing aviators. "I had no idea that he was planning to fly with Mrs. Grayson," said Miss Koehler. Miss Koehler is clinging to the hope that the plane in which Mrs. Grayson and her crew, of which Koehler was engine expert, may be found.

MINERS DRIVEN OUT BY NANT-Y-GLO FIRE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 3.—Frozen water lines prevented local firemen from halting a blaze which destroyed a large frame bunkhouse at Springfield Coal Company, Nant-y-Glo, injured one man and drove 50 miners from their beds, scantily-clothed, into sub-zero weather. Damage was estimated at $10,000. The fire was caused by an overheated stove.

CHARLES SHAMBAUGH

Because he wrote a letter to Admiral Brumby, in charge of the S-4 salvage, expressing a keen interest in it, Charles Shambaugh was invited to attend the raising work as an expert. Brumby had gained the impression that he was a diving genius. Since it turned out that he, as he said, knew "less about submarines than any man living," it resulted in nothing but a government expense account for Shambaugh's sojourn between Indianapolis and Provincetown.

TAKE 26 FROM THIS CITY TO ATLANTA

United States Marshal J. C. McGregor, Deputy Marshal D. A. Goldman, and 10 special guards left for the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., with 26 prisoners convicted in the Federal District Court. The prisoners, whose total terms of imprisonment aggregate 45 years, were placed in a special car at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station, due at the penitentiary tomorrow afternoon.

It was the largest number of government prisoners taken from this city at one time in many years. The number was decreased one by the recent modification of the 14-month sentence imposed on Robert Crystal, a former Turtle Creek saloonkeeper, convicted of impersonating government officers and "shaking down" saloonkeepers, to a three-year parole by Judge W. H. S. Thomson, on the recommendation of United States District Attorney John D. Meyer. Three men convicted with him are now serving penitentiary sentences.

Among the prisoners were Ellis C. Walters, a former employe of the Keystone National Bank, to serve five years for embezzling bank funds; Clifford Shannon, former assistant cashier in the office of the collector of internal revenue, Pittsburgh, to serve three years for embezzling government funds; Louis H. Robinson, three years for counterfeiting government notes, and four years additional for violating parole. Others were sentenced for violating the Harrison narcotic act, transporting stolen automobiles in interstate commerce, robbing postoffice, violating the Volstead act and other federal offenses.

MONEY LOVE by BEATRICE BURTON

Despite His Protests Lily Visits Pat's Home and Meets the Family

But her eyes were kind, and she turned to Lily with a smile in them. "You sit right down here at the table in Pat's place," she told her, and I'll fix another place for him right away—next to you. Pat, what made you so late? We thought you'd be here at half past six."

Pat grinned broadly and engagingly at Lily. I had to clean up the car," he answered. This Miss Lexington I work for used the car for a picnic today and it was full of mud and crumbs.

Lily laughed aloud, and he laughed with her. But Mrs. Frances face grew sober. Are you the Miss Lexington Pat's working for? she asked, without a shadow of a smile, and Lily said that she was, as she lit a cigaret from her little gold case.

Mrs. France watched her smoke it with startled eyes. Afterward Lily found out that it was the first time she had ever seen a woman smoke a cigaret. But at the time she wondered why the little, cheerful woman stared at her so, through steel-rimmed spectacles.

From the other side of the table Florence stared, too. . . . She seemed to be wondering what Lily [illegible] in her mother's kitchen. [illegible] ...ily seemed out of place [illegible] ...in, humble home, she did [illegible] ...he least bit out of place. [illegible] thoroughly at home, however, eating corned beef that Pat's silent, good-looking father sliced for her. She ate every mouthful of it, too, although she had no appetite for veal and cocoanut custart pie at home.

At twenty minutes to eight Florence's sweetheart rang the doorbell, and Florence, who had barely spoken, excused herself to go to the movies with him. Then Pat and his father vanished into the basement to have a look at the famous piston ring that Pat said would make his fortune, and Lily was left alone with his mother.

They talked while Mrs. France did the dishes and Lily sat, smoking cigaret after cigaret, without offering to wipe a dish or put a kettle away. It never occurred to her to help. She was having a beautiful time, listening to Pat's mother tell her all about Pat from the time he was a little boy and played all day and every day with a cheap red tin automobile.

He's cracked on automobile machinery and that's the truth," she said. "We didn't want him to be a chauffeur for you or anybody else. We wanted him to go into the grocery with his father, but he said he knew more about carburetors than cabbages. . . . He has a cute way of saying things, has Pat. He's a great boy."

Lily agreed with her, in her heart. She went home that night more in love with Pat than ever. She no longer saw him as her mother's driver, but as his own mother's son—the son who had been "cracked" on automobiles ever since his baby days.

* * *

The next morning when she opened her eyes she heard Pat's voice in the hall downstairs. He was talking to Mrs. Lexington.

Usually it took Lily a long time to get the sleep out of her eyes, but this morning she was wide awake instantly.

She hurried to the top of the stairs, in her sleeping suit of Chinese silk, and listened.

Her mother was speaking now. "I'll show you how to serve if you'll come into the dining room," she heard her say. "I'd like you to wait on table tomorrow night. I'm having some people in, and tonight Mr. Drummond is coming for dinner, so you can serve tonight, just for the practice, Pat."

Pat did not answer. The silence in the lower hall began to rumble in Lily's ears after a minute or two.

CHAPTER XIX.

LILY crept down to the landing and peered into the lower hall.

Pat was facing her mother and slowly shaking his dark, handsome head. There was a small smile on his lips, but his blue eyes were serious and watchful.

"No, I couldn't wait on anybody's table, Mrs. Lexington," he said, in his deep voice that always stirred Lily almost as much as his touch stirred her. You hired me to keep your automobile in order and drive it. I didn't mind washing the windows yesterday, or cleaning up the back yard the day before. But I certainly am not going to carry soup and fish around a table."

Mrs. Lexington's chin, that she always carried up, lest she get a double chin, went up a fraction of an inch higher. "It would be only for a couple of days, Pat," she said to him, coldly. "Just until I get someone to take Carrie's place."

He shook his head once again. I can't take Carrie's place even for two days. I'm no woman to be working around the kitchen, Mrs. Lexington. . . . I don't want to work around anything but automobiles, anyway. If it was just work I wanted I could have gone into my own Dad's grocery store—"

"I'm not interested in your history, Pat!" Mrs. Lexington cut in, sharply. "You'll either learn to wait on table tonight or go right now."

To Lily's amazement, Pat did not answer. She saw a dark red flush go over his face and neck, and he gave a little laugh and walked out of the house. The front door closed gently behind him.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

LILLIAN rarely is on guard with me. Indeed, she told me once that I was her "safety valve," and that it was "heavenly not to have to think twice before speaking" to me. So I was not surprised to see a look of genuine astonishment flash into her face at my news, and to hear her repeat in startled tones:

"Harry! Phil has news of Harry? When? Where? Has he seen him? It isn't bad news, I can see that by your face, so take your time in the telling."

She leaned back in her chair, her eyes fixed on mine. That I had startled her, I saw clearly. But there was something else in her eyes, inscrutable, watchful. Was it fear or relief?

"No, it isn't bad news," I said slowly, "but extremely odd. Mr. Veritzen hasn't seen him, nor heard from him directly, but he is certain that he is alive, well, and in this country, though Mr. Underwood evidently does not want that fact known as yet."

"Sounds like a Chinese puzzle to me," she returned, and I was surprised at the distinct edge of impatience in her voice. "What is the source of all this information Phil is spilling?"

In as quick and brief fashion as I could manage, I told her of the manuscript drama which had been sent Mr. Veritzen, ostensibly the work of a young unknown author, but which the famous producer declared could have been written by no one else save Harry Underwood. I also repeated the dictum of the great dramatic authority that underneath Harry Underwood's flippancy and indolence was concealed one of the finest dramatic minds of the country, and that the Broadway play tinkerer had written "several dramatic fragments which in sheer beauty and originality of treatment went far beyond" anything that he ever had seen. By the time I had finished, Lillian was sitting bolt upright in her chair, her eyes aflame with interest.

"If Phil says Harry wrote that play which has been sent to him," she said, "you can bank your last dollar upon the fact that he did write it. Phil's perceptions are unerring where a piece of dramatic work is concerned. And he's right about those fragments Harry wrote. They were really the last work in their line. I tried my best to get him to finish some of the things he had begun, but he was—"

She hesitated, and with a little laugh I finished her sentence.

"Mr. Veritzen said that he was 'too bone lazy' to do that."

The first smile I had seen on her face since we had settled down for our talk twitched the corners of her mouth.

"Phil knows him," she commented dryly. "But—you say that this play sent to Phil is a completed one?"

"That is what he said."

"Then that looks as if he finally had conquered himself—or at least his indolence," she hastily amended. "If he has, there is no estimating the success he can have. Phil will be right behind him, he always was tremendously fond of Harry, although, of course, that wouldn't make him push the play if it were not unusual—I don't think Phil Veritzen would sacrifice an inch of his artistic conscience for any friend no matter how dear—but he also has the idea of Harry's dramatic ability firmly fixed in his noddle—so, you see—a good play and a Veritzen production—what more could you ask?"

"It seems the best of all fairy godmother, or rather—godfather wishes," I told her, smiling.

"It's all of that and then some," she rejoined, and then put a sudden anxious question.

"Look here, Madge. Phil praised the fragments Harry used to do, and said that he was sure this play, purporting to be the work of a young unknown author, was really Harry's. But did he say specifically that this play was good?"

Excess Fat Bars Goodies

Get Thin without Starvation

Excess fat causes many constant self-denials. Every day brings a new fight, and only a small percentage gain in those ways what they seek. The real cause is left uncorrected.

Over 20 years ago medical science discovered a great cause of excess fat. It lies in lack of a substance which controls nutrition. A factor which Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat.

Then that factor was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Now people have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. Today everyone can see that excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was. In almost every circle slenderness prevails.

The use of Marmola requires no abnormal exercises or diet, though moderation helps. Users simply take four tablets daily until they correct the cause. They know what they are taking, and why. The formula is given in every box, also the reasons for all results. Every user knows why the benefits come, and why they involve no harm.

You should try Marmola. Consider what it has done for so long, for so many. Watch what it brings to you in new beauty, new health and vitality. Learn the easy, pleasant, right way to a normal figure. As long as you live you may be glad that you found this scientific method. Order now—before you forget it. Do not wait.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

PANTHERS BOW TO STANFORD, 7-6

PITT MAY JOIN CONFERENCE

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

BEST IN PITTSBURG TUES UARY 3, 1928

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

EVEN though it was the only defeat of a great team in a great season, and came when a victory would have meant something close to the national intercollegiate football championship for the University of Pittsburgh, followers of the Panthers have every reason for viewing their showing in Pasadena yesterday with pride rather than with a feeling of disappointment.

For in being beaten by only a 7-to-6 score by Stanford, in losing only because the usually reliable Dick Booth missed on his kick for point after touchdown, Coach Jock Sutherland, Capt. Gibby Welch and his players, as well as Pitt spirit, really won a moral victory.

THAT it's tough to be nosed out by such a narrow margin cannot be denied. It would have been expecting too much to look for a Panther victory in view of the adverse conditions, but when there was such a good chance to get a tie and thus escape defeat the football fates surely gave the Blue and Gold a bad break in denying them the single point that would have meant so much.

Gibby Welch.

That part of it is not easy to swallow, admittedly. However, when everything is considered, it must be conceded that Pitt is deserving of a world of credit.

Everything was against the Panthers. They had not played anything like a game except a meeting with an alumni team for 39 days; they had been denied even a reasonable amount of practice by unfavorable weather; they had been scouted by Pop Warner himself, whereas Coach Sutherland never had seen Stanford, and finally they had to make the long journey across the continent and play in a strange climate against athletes who were born and reared in it.

WHEN all these handicaps are weighed, it must be realized that the local lads did even more than could have been reasonably expected of them in holding Stanford to a 7-to-6 score.

Because they held Welch to runs of 10 to 15 yards, because they made 14 first downs to Pitt's eight, because they showed the better form generally while enjoying every advantage, and because they kicked their goal after touchdown while the Panthers missed, and because a ball-carrier was alert enough to recover a dropped ball, the Stanford gridders deserved their victory. But on the

YOUTHFUL MENTOR

Here is a fine closeup view of Coach Davies, one of the youngest, but at the same time one of the most successful, athletic tutors in this section. Chick himself is a former Duquesne University star, and he later played the game in the independent and professional ranks, so that he knows it from all angles.

Ganzy Benedict is one of the stars of Duke quintet and has had considerable experience, but he doesn't know so much about the fine points that he can't learn a great deal more from observing Coach Davies. Here we have Davies right at home again in a uniform and throwing every bit as much energy into the workout as the players themselves.

EASTERN BASKETBALL LOOP IS PLANNED

IF PLANS now under way materialize, the University of Pittsburgh will be a member of a big Eastern intercollegiate basketball conference before the finish of the current campaign, brilliantly inaugurated with six consecutive victories, five of them over Western Conference opponents.

The proposed circuit was first broached last season by Lou Andrews, the Syracuse University coach, and Coach Dutch Herrmann of Penn State, but no progress was made toward organizing it. Some correspondence has taken place recently, however, and, so far as Pitt is concerned, a definite stand may be taken this week when Syracuse appears here for a battle.

Ten colleges are named as likely members of the conference, to be met alternately in groups, each team playing one-half of the Conference one season and the other half the following year. The teams named as sectional prospective members are Pitt and West Virginia, Lafayette and Lehigh, Penn State and Georgetown, Syracuse and Colgate and Rutgers and New York University.

If formed, steps will be taken to have some man of prominence, likely Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, act as dictator of the conference. Pitt could go into the circuit and play a schedule of games that would not interfere with its original card for this season. It plays State at home and away, Syracuse here, Colgate away and West Virginia here. Lehigh and Lafayette could be met on one extra trip and New York University and Rutgers on another if necessary.

It is believed that membership in a league such as the one proposed would be a good break for all of the institutions concerned. The Eastern Intercollegiate League has been a success for years, and the race for the championship creates and maintains great interest. The members of this loop are Cornell, Columbia, Penn, Dartmouth, Yale and Princeton.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

AFTER years of trying, Duquesne University finally has broken the ice and landed a football game with one of the major elevens of the district for next fall. It will meet Wash-Jeff at Little Washington on the thirteenth of October.

This is a good break for the Dukes. It is the forerunner of bigger and better things. It may lead eventually to annual meetings with Pitt and Carnegie Tech in football, basketball and other branches of athletics.

Nothing could be more natural than three-cornered rivalry involving Pitt, Carnegie Tech and the Dukes. All three are Pittsburgh institutions. There really is no reason why Pitt should meet Tech and both should cut the Dukes cold.

PITT'S and Tech's given reasons for not meeting the Dukes are that the Dukes' eligibility rules are not on a par with their own. The Dukes use freshman players and have played night school students in the past. But Pitt and Tech themselves didn't always have the freshman rule. And Pitt and Tech play Thiel, Geneva, Grove City, Allegheny and other colleges that are too small to observe the freshman rule. So that that argument does not hold water.

The real reason for the standoff of the Dukes is that Pitt and Tech hold the balance of power locally and seemingly have everything to lose and nothing to gain meeting the Dukes. If they beat the Dukes, particularly in football, they are expected to do that. But if the Dukes should beat them, they would feel humiliated. And if the Dukes should happen to get up on a par with them, they would have to split their local patronage and gate receipts with the

W. P. I. A. L. RACE OPENS TODAY

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

The opening of the basketball race in the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League today will see the eight teams of Section 1 in action—marking the real opening of the scholastic court term.

Rivals of old will be facing each other before the hanging nets. New Kensington High School's combination will play host to Arnold, Tarentum High takes a little trip down the river to Verona, Oakmont crosses the Allegheny to Springdale, and Freeport invades Parnassus. All of the games should be interesting.

Of the other tilts on tap for today, the one between Wilkinsburg and Turtle Creek Union should turn out to be a keen battle. Whenever these schools meet, no friendship is spared in the fight for victory. Four other contests are on the books. East Pike Run plays at Fayette City, Fairview goes to Fairmont East, Rivesville takes on Hundred and Scootdale vistis North Union.

Consensus Boxing List In Tomorrow's Sun-Tele

Recently the Hearst newspapers registered a hit with a consensus all-America football team, chosen by the football writers of this organization. Now a boxing all-star lineup has been selected and will appear in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

Ten boxers are ranked at each weight. Two Pittsburgh district lads are among them. Can you guess which ones they are? Watch for the consensus selections in tomorrow's issue.

HAVING scored four successive victories without the loss of a game, the Duquesne Lafayettes, winners of the Allegheny County League championship, will be out tonight to shake a "jinx" of long standing when they invade Columbus Temple to engage the Enoch Rauh club in a league battle.

The Duquesne Lafayettes, despite their brilliant record in local independent circles, never have scored a victory over the Enoch Rauhs on the Columbus Temple floor.

The Rauhs, fresh from their two-point victory over Cumberland last Sunday, have shown steady improvement after a mediocre start and are confident of continuing

PASADENA, Jan. 3.—"We didn't lose the game—Stanford won it. I give Pop Warner's boys the credit," was Capt. Gibby Welch's only comment on the Tournament of Roses game which saw the Golden Panthers go down to their one defeat of the season yesterday afternoon.

Stanford won by a single point, 7 to 6, but the margin of superiority was wider than the score indicates, despite the fact that the Cardinal's touchdown was of the "fluke" species and thousands of partisan fans in the stand booed the officials when the score was allowed.

PLAY IN BLAZING SUN

Playing under a blazing sun that quickly sapped their vitality, the Panthers showed occasional flashes of the savage offense that swept them through the regular season undefeated, but it was not the same Pitt team that overwhelmed West Virginia, Carnegie Tech, Nebraska and Penn State. It was a courageous team fighting against odds that were too great and against playing conditions that were torturing.

Pitt was forced into a defensive game early in the first quarter when Stanford, with Biff Hoffman

DAVIES BEATS BURLIE IN GOOD BATTLE

By HARRY KECK.
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

AN ELONGATED flyweight from Toronto named Alec Burlie, acting like a ringman who enjoys his work, made things interesting throughout the eight-round windup for Willie Davies of Charleroi, the state champion, before a good-sized holiday throng in a matinee at Motor Square Garden yesterday, and, although he lost the decision, registered a hit with the crowd.

Burlie, who had boxed Davies three times before, was just shaded in every round but the fifth, in which Davies crowded some real steam behind his punches and scored decisively. At no time was Burlie in trouble, however. His flip-flopping false teeth gave him more concern than the battle in hand, and he had to make frequent adjustment of the molars.

On the whole, he had quite a happy afternoon of it in the ring. Before the fight he went over to Davies' corner looking for a knife to cut the tape on his hands, a duty a second or manager generally attends to; then, before the bell for the first round, he picked up his stool and handed it to his second over the top rope, a bit of labor too menial for the average main-bouter; between rounds he took time out between gasps for breath to answer a loud query from a spectator about the location of Toronto, replying 'It's in Niagara Falls," and just before the final bell he reached over and picked up some object at his feet and tossed it out of the ring. He was about as cool and unconcerned as any boxer who has shown here in a long time.

Burlie's long reach and flailing arms enabled him to do quite a bit of counter hitting as Davies set the pace. His best punch was a left hook to the stomach early in the bout and later he mixed with both fists. Davies fought flatfooted from the beginning of the fifth round on and slowed down Burlie a bit with his more determined hitting during

MUSKINGUM WINS DECISIVE VICTORY OVER DUKES

Syracuse Hopes to Put Some of Its Salt on Panther's Tail

NOTES of the BOXERS

THE Motor Square Club is trying to line up an opponent for Battling Levinsky, fomer American light-heavyweight champion, in its main bout next Monday night and hopes to be able to announce its card today. The Red Chapman-Al Corbett bout originally booked for that date has been set back one week because of the injury to Chapman's shoulder, suffered when he fell at the start of his bout with Tommy Crowley here recently.

Newsboy Brown and Johnny McCoy meet in a 10-round bout at Los Angeles tonight. Brown is the former foremost contender for the flyweight title and McCoy recently won an elimination tournament in California.

Jack Barry boxes Joe Trippe at Erie Friday night.

Kid Crutchfield, Negro heavyweight of the Hill, is sore because he says the Motor Square Club promised him a windup in the event he defeated Sam Hunter and Marco Polo, and, now that he has filled those contracts, is giving Garfield Johnson, Negro importation from South, preference over him. He is willing to fight an elimination with Johnson and let his entire purse go to any local charity if he does not win.

Local boxers had a busy holiday out of town yesterday. Cuddy DeMarco was injured in falling out of the ring in the fifth round of his bout with Billy Petrolle at Fargo, N. D., and had to toss in the towel at the end of the sixth round; Sandy Seifert defeated Emmet Rocco in 12 rounds at Youngstown and Johnny Dunn won over Andy Tomasky in six rounds on the same card; Phil Goldstein defeated Harry Scott, of Atlantic City, in 10 rounds at Holyoke, Mass.; Joe Sharra drew with Young Irish in four rounds at Akron and K. O. Abe Witz defeated Johnny Huff, of Moundsville, W. Va., in eight rounds at Willow Beach.

Rudy Coder, Tarentum welterweight, boxes Jimmy Duffy of New Kensington, in a 10-round bout at Clarksburg tomorrow night. Frankie Palmer and Abe Dempsey will meet in the semi-final.

Lope Tenerio boxes Frankie Schaefer, Davy Abad meets Kid Carter, and Arturo Shekles and Jack Sparr clash in 10-round bouts at Chicago tonight.

KAPLAN FORCED OUT

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan 3.—(INS.)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, Meriden, Conn., lightweight, may not fight again this Winter. A surgical examination disclosed that the former featherweight champion is suffering from floating cartilage of the knee. An operation or an extended rest period will be necessary to restore him to condition. Promoter Tex Rickard had planned to match Kaplan with the winner of the Sid Terris-Jimmy McLarnin bout.

Ohio Quint Shows Form

By JESS CARVER.

SOMEONE, I think it was Bill Campbell, told Chick Davies that he would have to lose more of his auburn hair if he was going to continue being a successful basketball coach. The Dukes of Duquesne, who are under the tutelage of Chick, took another thumping in the whiskers last night when they were decisively trounced by Muskingum's fine team. The score was 32-30.

Muskingum is the second team to play in Pittsburgh this year, and beat the Dukes, coached by a bald-headed mentor. Ohio Wesleyan's boss was just three hairs short of the 15 or 16 boasted by Coach Lange of Muskingum. And when you figure that Pitt, another winning team, is under the guidance of Doc Carlson, who is not overburdened with natural head covering, it begins to look as though Davies will have to be shorn.

At any rate, his Dukes were well shorn of honors last evening. The locals never had a look in, Muskingum ringing up a dozen points before the Dukes broke the scoring ice and piling up a 22-8 lead at half time. Led by the giant and clever Bob Taylor at center and Harrup and Cliff Orr and Clark, the Magenta and Black clad five gave the Dukes a lesson in college basketball.

In the second half, or rather, before it started, Coach Lange took Clark and Orr, his two best floormen out of the game, and used replacements. The Muskingum team didn't have to work very hard in the period to hold the Dukes even, for with a 14-point lead, and a defense like they had, it would have taken a better club than the Dukes to overtake them.

The Duke foul tossing was away off, only five out of an awarded 19 free throws being converted into points. Muskingum made 8 out of 13.

other hand, Pitt's athletes earned plenty of glory. The showing they made has never been surpassed by any team facing so many disadvantages and they are entitled to all the praise and credit that can be heaped upon them. They did a good job under the circumstances.

ALREADY holding a big lead over all other major league baseball managers in the number of players he has let go since the close of the 1927 season, Manager Joe McCarthy of the Chicago Nationals continues to swing his ax.

Joe McCarthy.

In shipping Pitcher Jim York and Infielder Tom Sewell to the Cubs' farm at Reading, McCarthy lengthened his list of off-season releases to a total of 12, as previously he traded Adams and Scott to Pittsburgh for Cuyler and sent Brillheart, Pick, Tolson, Kelly, Fowler, Rouprich, Wilkie and Kearn to the miners.

The Cub leader has established a record for recent seasons in parting with 12 players so far this winter. And he is not yet ready to cease his pruning operations, according to reports, as it is said that one or two additional players soon will be added to the string of discards.

AN INTERESTING feature of the latest releases handed out by the boss of the Bruins is the fact that one of them represents the failure of another "third brother" to make good in the major leagues.

There have been a number of instances of two brothers holding major league berths for some time, notably the Wagners, the Cooneys, whose father preceded them as a big leaguer, by the way; the Meusels, the Johnstons, the Sewells and others, to say nothing of the fact five Delehantys and four O'Neills broke into the big show.

But in recent years attempts of a "third brother" to win a place in the fast set have rarely been successful. A late instance was the failure of a brother of Jess and Virgil Barnes, and now a Cub release adds one more, as Tom Sewell, sent to Reading, is a brother of Joe and Luke Sewell of the Cleveland club. They do not often come in "threes."

Mack Wants Ty Cobb to Play For A's

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Connie Mack wants Ty Cobb to play for him again. The veteran of 22 major league campaigns recently was unconditionally released by the Philadelphia Americans because his services were costing too much.

Catholic school. At least, that is their inside viewpoint.

THEREFORE, Pitt and Tech have done everything possible to discourage the growth of the Dukes athletically by refusing to grant them recognition. What they should do is to encourage the Bluffites by lending a helping hand. Competition is the life of any sport or business, and college athletics, despite all arguments to the contrary, have become big business. This applies particularly to football, from which the receipts must come to maintain the other sports.

Pitt and Tech should look ahead and realize the value of recognizing the Dukes as a live factor in athletics in Pittsburgh. With their help they can make the Dukes big and powerful enough to enable them to install the freshman rule and other required eligibility features and in time to come share in profitable three-cornered rivalry of a healthy nature.

THE Dukes undoubtedly are on the upgrade, with their consistently good basketball teams, coached by the clever Chick Davies, and their improved football elevens, with Elmer Layden, the former Notre Dame star, at the helm, and no better time than now could be asked by Pitt and Tech to play a friendly big brother act and give them the necessary encouragement to go over the top.

Meanwhile, let's salute Wash-Jeff for its splendid gesture in starting the ball rolling in the proper direction!

SOCCER NEWS

by TOM BIRKS

THERE will be a special meeting of the West Penn Referees' Association at the usual place next Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. It is advisable that all referees attend as important business will be discussed. For the first time in many moons the association is beginning to show something on the right side of the ledger. Secretary Frank Hulets' report has a promising look that augurs well for the future.

The calling off of the entire soccer schedule Sunday is another blow to the officials, who are trying to clear up the league schedule. Of course, the clubs can hardly be blamed for Sunday's cold spell, but it is quite likely that last week's games will be scheduled this week.

Reliable information comes to hand that the Westinghouse-McPherson game will be replayed at a later date, and that the scheduling of the game is in the hands of the local commissioner of the Cup Competition. It was hardly possible that the Valley club would lose its rights in the tourney despite added information that many peculiar happenings marked the playing of the first game.

CIRCUIT BOSSES REVEAL PLANS

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 3.—Eight teams will make up the expanded Pennsylvania Baseball League, it was announced here today following a meeting of the club owners in Greensburg last night. Representatives were present from Greensburg, Blairsville, New Kensington and Latrobe, which comprised the circuit last year, and from Vandergrift, Tarentum and Monessen, which have been awarded franchises for the coming season.

New Kensington will use the Parnassus High School field, it was announced by Fred Broad, president. The Blairsville club, managed by Al Gormley of Wilkinsburg, will be backed by business men of the town. Latrobe is also to be under new management.

John (Lefty) McIlvaine, last year manager of the Charleroi club of the Mid-Atlantic League, will pilot Monessen. Other representatives at the meeting were: Mayor McIntyre of Vandergrift, Richard Guy of Greensburg and Emil Starke of Tarentum. Peter Kilday, former Wheeling player, has been awarded a franchise, which he will place in one of several towns now under consideration. The circuit will be definitely announced at next week's meeting.

and Dick Hyland slipping away for big gains, carried the ball to their own 47. Hoffman then punted out of bounds on Pitt's four-yard line; Hagan promptly punted back to Hyland on his 45 and the flashy little Cardinal back was run out of bounds on the Pitt 35. Again Stanford worked the ball into scoring territory, but Gibby Welch broke up the advance by intercepting Hyland's pass on his 25. Pitt's attack failed to make much headway and the quarter ended with Stanford having a big edge.

In the second quarter, after an exchange of punts, Wilton and Hoffman carried the ball to a first down on Pitt's three-yard line, but the Panthers made a marvelous stand and held the Cardinals for downs. The sun was sinking behind the mountains and it was cooler when the third period started. The Panthers began a determined march down the field. Welch, Booth and Hagan carried the ball to Stanford's 28-yard line, but Gibby's long pass to Hagan was knocked down by Wilton and rolled over the goal line. The Redshirts took the ball on the 20.

HAGAN SCORES

Murphy tried left tackle and dropped a yard, and then Wilton attempted to run around Pitt's right end. He fumbled and Jimmy Hagan scooped up the pigskin, racing 16 yards for a touchdown. Heinecke blocked Booth's attempted placement and the score was Pitt 6, Stanford 0.

Stanford came back strong and mached right down the field. Hoffman passed 30 yards to Worden, who made five more before he was downed on the Pitt 30. Hoffman tore through for 11 and then two more. Wilton added five at left tackle and Post made three on a guard around play, carrying the ball to Pitt's 8-yard line. With fourth down and two to go, Wilton tossed a flat pass to Sims. Sims fumbled and after a mad scramble, picked up the oval, evaded two Pitt tacklers and crossed the goal line. Hoffman place-kicked the extra point as the quarter ended. Score, Stanford 7, Pitt 6.

The play was booed by the stands. It was another of those "possession or no possession" questions which cost Southern California the Notre Dame game. The officials did not hesitate to allow the score, but it was evident that the ball scraped Sim's finger tips as he reached high in the air for the pass, and then bounched along the ground in front of him. A number of coaches present, including Lou Young of Pennsylvania, stated after the game that the touchdown was made on an illegal play.

NO PROTEST FROM JOCK

However, Coach Jock Sutherland accepted the decision without protesting, which would have been to no avail.

After the game, Pop Warner told reporters that his team was completely exhausted.

"It was the hardest fought game I have ever seen," Warner stated. "Several of my men are completely 'out.' It was very evenly matched and I feel fortunate that Standford won."

The Pitt-Southern California alumni group entertained the Pitt party at a banquet in the Vista Del Arroya hotel after the game. Several hundred alumni and friends attended. And the gathering included several movie celebrites, Burr McIntosh, Johnny Hines and Harry Thaw, whose interest in the film world centers around a couple of vivacious blondes whom Thaw believes will become stars.

The prettiest girls in Pasadena were invited to come to the dance following the dinner. And each Panther player had a beautiful partner.

Today, the Pitt party will visit the movie colony, and after a steak dinner at Ye Bull Pen, a famous eating place, the Chinese Theater, Southern California's latest and most elaborate movie house, will entertain the Pitt, Pennsylvania and Standford football teams. The Penn and California elevens were guests at yesterday's game. And Jack Dempsey himself occupied a box on the Standford side of the field. Tomorrow the Pitt players will visit Cataline Island before entraining for San Francisco on the homeward journey.

this period. In the main Willie appeared to lack his old speed, which may account for his recent reverses, but he alternately boxed and fought well enough to take the carefree Burlie's measure. Burlie used backhand punches frequently and Willie complained about them to no avail.

Davies wore a pair of the New York commission's authorized tights of black with red belt and side stripes. He scaled 112 pounds and Burlie 114.

Young Saylor of Charleroi, beaten for the only time in his career in his last previous start, and then via the technical knockout route by Willie Harmon, flashed a snappy "comeback" in the semi-final, beating Rudy Ceder of Tarentum all the way through the eight rounds with the exception of a momentary lapse in the sixth round when Ceder nailed him with a choppy, downward right to the jaw as he was coming in and slumped him to his knees for a count of three. Saylor was altogether too fast and too good a boxer for Ceder, who isn't the fighter or puncher he once was. Both weighed 150 pounds.

TWO BAD DECISIONS

Bad decisions marred the first two bouts. George Harris of Niles, O., 133 pounds, handed Young Rudy of Charleroi, 135, a boxing lesson in the second eight-rounder, losing only one round, with two even, only to have the judges split and the referee's decision go to Rudy. Judge Simco voted for a draw, Judge Brown for Harris and Referee Keally for Rudy. In the first eight-rounder, Joe Belmont of Braddock spent most of his time posing and trying to act clever and forced Harry Taylor of the North Side to do all of the fighting, yet he got Referee Eddie Kennedy's vote after the judges had split, with Simco ruling for Belmont and Brown rightly for Taylor. Taylor weighed 142¼ pounds and Belmont 141½.

Three referees worked, Eddie Kennedy and Joe Keally in the preliminaries and Red Robinson in the main bout. The trio wore the commission's new garb, dark grey shirts and trousers, with black bow ties.

BENNY'S COUSIN IN RING

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(INS)—Born of real fighting stock, Maxie Lesser, a cousin of Benny Leonard, is trying earnestly to emulate the famous former champion. Lesser is a member of the National Guard and has been cuffing the soldier boys around a bit until right now he is considered one of the best prospects of the bantamweight division. Maxie has been matched to meet Carlo Marula for six rounds here Thursday night and the old champion has promised to be on hand to second the kid.

LOCAL SWIMMERS LOSE

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 3.—With three University of Pittsburgh stars in the lineup, the Erie Y. M. C. A. swimming team once again turned back the invasion of a Pittsburgh All-Star tank team here yesterday, winning in a dual meet by a score of 33 to 24.

BOXERS ACTIVE IN STATE

THREE HUNDRED AND NINETY boxing shows were staged, 1,005 bouts made up the cards, 500,000 fans witnessed the programs and approximately 2,000 boxers were licensed in Pennsylvania during 1927, according to the annual report of the State Athletic Commission.

their string of successes at the expense of the champions.

If the Lafayettes succeed in taking over the Rauhs tonight there will be little chance of ousting them from first place in the championship race. On the other hand a victory for the Rauhs will serve as an incentive for the other clubs still in the running for the title.

Both teams have been changed considerably since last year, the Lafayettes losing Ganzy Benedict and the Rauhs Nate Lippe. Lippe played for the Rauhs last Sunday in Cumberland.

INDICATIONS point to a capacity crowd at the Young Men's Hebrew Association next Thursday night when the representative team engages an aggregation of stars composed of players who represented the Y. M. H. A. on the floor 20 years ago.

Officials of the Y. M. H. A. have arranged an elaborate program for the event, which is one of the features of the reunion now in session at the Bellefield institution.

The veterans have been working out for the last month in preparation for the game and will take the floor Thursday night in the pink of physical condition.

The Y. M. H. A. turned out numerous basketball stars during the last 20 years and many of the old favorites will be in uniform for the old-timers.

DRIBBLES

The Detroit Club has relinquished its franchise in the American Professional League.

The Goslins defeated McKees Rocks and Braddock defeated Broadway in the Allegheny County League last night.

Oscar Klinzing, star of the Broadway Club, is regarded as one of the best foul shots in the Allegheny County League. Klinzing seldom misses a free shot.

George Babic is playing a brilliant game at guard for the Goose Goslins. The popular North sider registered seven baskets against McKees Rocks last night.

CUE GAMES TONIGHT

Wainwright meets Pitfield at Rudy's and Smith plays Eichenmiller at Dimling's in the local three-cushion league this evening.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Debbies Forced Out of Spotlight as Society Folk Already Lay Plans for Spring Season

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Clara Dorothy Droste, of Benton avenue, North Side, to Thomas I. Ford.

MISS CLARA DOROTHY DROSTE

ALTHOUGH the year is just beginning, the debutantes' season is nearly over. Just a few entertainments are yet to be given for the debbies during the early part of this month, then plans will be started for a new bouquet of buds for next year.

Among the last of the parties for girls in their first season of the social whirl is an interesting tea-dance the Raymond Willeys of Beacon street are giving this afternoon in the Longue Vue Country Club in honor of charming Mary Currier Lewis of debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Lewis of Aylesboro avenue.

This event will probably be the last debutante party this season which the younger social set, still in schools and colleges, will be able to attend. There will be a few friends of the Willeys, too, among the guests, and of course the debutantes of the season.

Indicative that the holiday season is really over are the decorations for the tea. Spring flowers, with pink tones predominating, show that society is already looking forward to spring, first in the South and later in the North.

In the ballroom silver foliage conceals the lights. Vases and standards of spring flowers are attractively arranged throughout the clubhouse.

The Willeys and Mary are receiving. Mrs. Willey is gowned in burgundy with a felt hat of the same shade completing her costume. The debutante is wearing a frock of amber satin.

Joseph C. Willey, son of the Willeys, who is attending the tea-dance this afternoon, will leave on Sunday for Princeton, where he is a student. Jonathan C. Willey, the younger son, will return to Andover on Saturday.

Jack Currier Lewis, Mary's brother, left Sunday night for Yale.

The Hill school boys will be returning the latter part of this week. Among them will be James Edward Lewis, Jr., also Mary's brother.

* * *

Many entertainments are being given for Virginia Josephine Heyl, daughter of the Edmund Wendell Heyls of Bigelow boulevard, and Winfield Holden Binns, son of the Edward Hussey Binns of West Woodland road, whose marriage will take place tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at a solemn high nuptial mass in St. Paul's Cathedral.

H. Kenelm Binns, who is a brother of the prospective bridegroom, entertained at a dinner in the Duquesne Club Friday night for the bridal party. A box party at the Nixon followed.

And of course there are many bridges. This afternoon Mrs. Sydney W. Binns is entertaining at a bridge-tea in the home of her mother, Mrs. Norman P. Brown of Amberson avenue, and Mary Wilson of Tennyson avenue, gave a bridge in her home on Friday.

Katherine Knapp gave a dinner party Saturday evening in the Longue Vue Country Club. There were 50 covers. Last night Katherine Reilly, who will be one of the bridesmaids, gave the rehearsal dinner in the Pittsburgh Country Club.

There was a bachelor dinner, too, given in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

* * *

The last, but by no means the least popular bud to make her bow to the social world this season was Anne King Scott, daughter of the S. King Scotts of Devon road. Her parents, you will recall, decided to omit the usual coming out tea, postponing her debut until last evening when her grandmother, Mrs. William Scott of Devonshire street presented her at a dance in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

The debutante, who received with her grandmother, wore white chiffon and carried Pernet roses. The hostess appeared in black velvet, so much favored this year by society folks.

Smilax and cibotium ferns and pink begonias made the ballroom most attractive. Begonias were also used for the supper tables, lighted by pink tapers. Covers were laid for nearly 400.

Ann will be the honor guest at a dinner the William R. Scotts of Northumberland street will give Saturday evening in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. Dancing will follow the dinner.

* * *

One usually associates dancing with the evening or late afternoon. But following the New Year's breakfast given yesterday in the University Club by Mr. and Mrs. Winfield K. Shiras, Sr., and their daughter Anne, there was dancing. The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Winfield K. Shiras, Jr., of New York and Greenwich, who spent the holidays with Mr. Shiras' parents, and Stalling Winston Childs of New York, brother of the senior Mrs. Shiras.

* * *

Announcement is made of the marriage of Dr. Oletha L. Richey, daughter of Mrs. Elvira Richey, of Murray avenue, and Orville F. Bricker of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized last Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg, by the Rev. Dr. Hugh M. Leith. Miss Dorothy M. Bepler, of Wilkinsburg, and Victor Adams, of Butler, were the attendants. After a short motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bricker will be at home in Murray avenue.

* * *

At a bridge luncheon given Saturday by Mrs. J. S. Rex of Ingram avenue, Ingram, announcement was made of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Rex, to William W. White. Four tables were in play. Miss Rex is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Mr. White was graduated from the university and also from the Jefferson Medical College, and he is a member of the Sigma Pi and the Phi Beta Pi fraternities. A June wedding is planned.

* * *

Mrs. David White, of Kittanning, gave a luncheon Saturday to announce the engagement of Miss Sarah Kennerdell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kennerdell, of North McKean street, Kittanning, to Robert Wilson Snodgrass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Snodgrass, Jr., of Home avenue, Avalon. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Rankin, of Stanton avenue, announce the marriage of their niece, Miss Margaret M. Lysinger, and Walter R. Jackson, of Roanoke, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jackson, of Austinville, Va., which was solemnized Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the East Liberty Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison. A breakfast in the Rittenhouse followed the ceremony. After February 1 Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will be at home in Roanoke.

CONGRESS OF CLUBS KEEPS OPEN HOUSE

It was a happy idea, whoever conceived it, that the Congress of Clubs should keep open house yesterday in celebration of the New Year. Congress members made it quite a family affair, 200 of them turning out for the elaborate dinner which was served from 1 until 8 o'clock, and for the programs which were given from time to time during the day. Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, Congress president, was present with a warm and gracious welcome for her big family and members of the hospitality, house and social committees assisted. At 3 o'clock the first bit of program was given when Miss Angelina Casale, a newcomer to the clubhouse, sang her way into the hearts of the members. Mrs. Emily D. Boydston, always reliable, was official accompanist for the entire day. At 4 o'clock Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell, chairman of music, entertained with a group of soprano solos and at 5 the callers listened to the radio returns of the Stanford-Pitt game.

In the evening the dinner tables were placed along the walls of the auditorium, the program taking place in the center of the room. Under Miss Helen Bennett's direction the department of recreation presented dance numbers, the music department introduced Russell Mitchell, Jr., who pleased with several baritone solos, and Neva Morris of the drama department gave a reading in costume to musical accompaniment, in which Betty Price assisted with a dance. The floor was cleared for general dancing from 8:30 until midnight, Mrs. Thomas P. Otto being chairman for this feature. There was a "lucky number dance," the prizes for which were a glass cigaret box for the man, Theodore Brown, and a lovely pearl choker for his partner, Miss Margaret Beech. There was also a dinner prize, a cut crystal compote, which was won by Miss Laura Redick.

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh will be held at Central Branch, Chatham street, Friday night, January 13, at 8 o'clock. At the meeting seven members of the board of directors will be voted upon to serve for three years and one member for two years, and a nominating committee also will be chosen. The ticket presented is as follows: For three years, Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy, Mrs. W. J. Gilmore, Mrs. Fred R. Kleibacker, Mrs. Walter S. Mitchell, Mrs. James C. Rea, Miss Herietta Logan, Mrs. J. Lindsay Kirkpatrick; for two years, Mrs. Robert D. Campbell; for nominating committing, Mrs. Samuel Black McCormick, Mrs. J. McCartney Kennedy, Miss A. Verne Collord, Mrs. Charles R. Miller and Mrs. H. A. Power.

Miss Anna Dodds will give a talk on "The Trend of Modern Books" before the evening department of the Aspinwall Woman's Club at the meeting in the clubhouse tonight. Miss Marion Swan will contribute piano solos to the program which Mrs. A. J. Croup has arranged.

* * *

"Catherine the Great," by Katherine Anthony; "Life and Letters of Joseph Conrad," by Jean Aubry, and "Tristram," by Edwin A. Robinson, are being review and discussed today at the meeting of the literature and arts department of the Aspinwall Woman's Club. Mrs. A. B. Reese, Mrs. G. Snyder and Mrs. D. K. Ballard are giving the program, and Mrs. D. J. Evans and Mrs. Eleanor Duckwall are hostesses in Mrs. Evans' home. The evening department is to hold its regular meeting tonight in the club house. Other events scheduled are the choral meeting the club house next Monday afternoon, the home economics deparement Tuesday afternoon, a guest night and lecture aJanuary 12, a bridge party under auspices of an evening department group January 13, the school committee meeting January 17, and the regular club meeting January 19 in charge of the program committee. In connection with this a bake sale will be held in charge of Mrs. A. P. Meyer and Mrs. F. A. Henry.

In addition to the lecture to be given tomorrow by Dr. Heber D. Curts on "The Influence of Astronomy on Modern Thought," the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church has on its calendar other events for the month. Mrs. R. M. Gilson will talk of "Some Continental Novels" at next week's meeting and a dinner will be served by the alliance that night in conjunction with the annual congregational meeting. "The Romance of the Rocks" is the subject for January 18 and Shirley Mason is the speaker. The last Wednesday of the month will be given over to a sewing for the Associated Charities. The January luncheons are in charge of Mrs. J. H. James.

The program for tomorrow's meeting of the Carnegie Tech Woman's Club will include soprano solos by Miss Eleanor Agnes Conley. The Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty is the speaker and his subject is "The Fine Art of Thinking."

STAGE AND SCREEN

DANCE, COMEDY IN ALDINE

An entertaining photoplay and diverting vaudeville acts feature the bill in the Aldine this week. The picture is "On Your Toes," starring Reginald Denny. Reginald shows quite a bit of versatility in the film. He mixes the gentle art of the dance with the more strenuous art of prizefighting. In addition, he wears a mustache in several sequences. And—what's more—he wiggles his ears. He ends up in a blaze of glory by winning a championship fight and the girl. On the stage Lester Lane and Company, featuring a number of attractive girls, offers a pleasing dance act. Ted and Al Waldman, black-face comedians, chatter and dance. They get a lot of melody out of a couple of harmonicas. Savoy and Mann amuse with their comedy gags. "Good Time Charley" is the title of the comedy skit that Scott Brothers and Vernon present. Pipifax and Company put art into clumsiness. Short screen entertainment completes the bill.

"Family Upstairs" Week's Play in East End

Applause in the East End Theater yesterday indicated that holiday audiences enjoyed Harry Schwartz's East End Players in "The Family Upstairs," a romantic comedy. The play is in three acts. Its action centers around members of the Heller family—papa, mama, the elder sister, the brother and the younger sister. It is mama's one big wish to see her oldest daughter, Louise, married to some nice young man. And it is the father's one big wish to see his son work more and sleep less. Beth Burke appears as Louise. Grace Whitcher impersonates the mother. The younger sister is portrayed by Grace Boslett, a Pittsburgh girl. Everette Johnstone is seen as the father and the son, Willie, who wants to called Bill, is played by Harry Schwartz. The romantic male lead—that is, Louise's boy friend—is taken by Ray Rawlings. Others in the cast are Phil Van Zandt and Myra Kennedy.

THIRTEEN UNLUCKY FOR CHICKEN THIEF

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 3.—Thirteen proved an unlucky number for Bolton McCray, Negro, who is held on a charge of stealing 13 chickens from a Clarksville farmer's henhouse. Bloodhounds led a trail to the Negro's home, where the fowls were being prepared for a celebration.

Clara Bow Hunts Her "Man" in Grand

"Get Your Man" is the motto of Clara Bow in the photoplay of that title, which is on the screen of the Grand this week. "Get Your Man" even though he is the fiance of another and she has to resort to a ruse to get into his home, become engaged to a French marquis and finally to compromise herself to such an extent her engagement is broken, is the routine she follows. The picture was adapted from a French farce and there is considerable fun in it. Miss Bow never was cuter than as the man hunter from America poaching in a French game preserve. Charles Rogers, likeable chap, too, was the hunted. Phillips Smalley and Josef Swickard did well in character parts. On the stage the Clarion Trumpeters, four girl musicians, and Frank La Forese, basso, gave a pleasing performance. The overture by the orchestra, "Topics of the Day" and news pictures completed the pleasing bill.

OLYMPIC VITAPHONE OFFERS OPERA SINGER

Beniamino Gigli, Metropolitan Opera tenor, is seen and heard as the Vitaphone feature in the Olympic this week. Cliff Nazzarri and the Two Marjories, who sing Southern spirituals, and Bert Lewis, comedy songster, also are on the Vitaphone bill. The photoplay is "Very Confidential," starring Madge Bellamy. She is seen as a salesgirl, who wins a handsome young millionaire. The cast includes Pat Gunning, Mary Duncan, Joseph Cawthorne and Marjorie Beebe. News pictures are on the bill.

AT YOUR DEALER'S

"Stolen Sweets" Makes Fun In Academy

"Stolen Sweets" is this week's burlesque in the Academy. Comedy fun predominates, but there were several features of a dramatic character lending variety to the entertainment. Charles "Bimbo" Davis, grotesque comedian; Gus Flaig, who wrote the burlesque; Billy and Artie Lewis were responsible for much of the comedy. Bee Bell played a soubret role and Belle Miller, the prima donna, pleased with her selections, particularly "Asleep in Poppyland," in which she was assisted by choristers attired as Geisha girls. The singing of the Lewis Harmony Trio also was a feature. Sketches included "Wanted a Wife" and "Family Affairs." Reggie White and girls appeared in a series of dances. Sharli, Hindu dancer, offered something new in terpsichorean evolutions.

"SATURDAY'S CHILDREN" AGAIN PLEASES IN PITT

"Saturday's Children," the domestic comedy by Maxwell Anderson, opened its second week in the Pitt yesterday, again pleasing audiences with intimate pictures of life in the home of the family next door, or around the corner, or perhaps—at home. In this little glimpse of the average daily grind Ruth Gordon and Humphrey Bogart play their roles so well that they seem like neighbors. Other parts also are well cast.

TWO PICTURES, STAGE ACT IN CAMERAPHONE

Koran, "Man of Mystery," is appearing as a featured stage attraction in the Cameraphone this week. He "reads" the future. Two photoplays are being presented. One is "On Your Toes," Reginald Denny's newest production. Denny is seen in the role of a prize fighter. The other picture is "The Four-Flusher," based on the Broadway stage success, and co-featuring George Lewis and Marion Nixon. News pictures are on the bill.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN IN CAMEO PHOTOPLAY

"The Thirteenth Juror," co-featuring Anna Q. Nilsson and Francis X. Bushman, is the current photoplay in the Cameo. It is based on Henry Irving Dodge's stage play, "Counsel for the Defense." The plot develops the lasting friendship of two men, even though the pleasure of one causes heartaches for the other. The cast includes Walter Pidgeon, George Seigmann, Martha Mattox and Lloyd Whitlock. Another picture in the "Collegians" series, International News and special music also are on the bill.

Girls Featured in Headline Act In Sheridan

An entertaining bill of stage and screen entertainment ushered in the New Year's and the thirtieth anniversary celebration in the Sheridan Square yesterday. Guy Voyer, assisted by Norma Pallat and six peppy girls, headlined the vaudeville in "So This is Marriage," an act that offered a theme, as well as music and comedy. Oscar and King came on the stage in a comedy skit, "A Swede Who Knows His Onions." Raymond Pike proved a versatile vaudeville entertainer. The Maldoro Trio presented a musical act. The photoplay was "Very Confidential," starring Madge Bellamy. It has a Cinderella-like plot, concerning a working girl.

PACKARD EIGHT PRICES REDUCED

PACKARD'S own Custom Eight cars are today reduced in price as follows:

MODEL	OLD PRICE	NEW PRICE	REDUCTION
Seven Pass. Sedan Limousine	$5250	$4550	$700
Seven Passenger Sedan	5150	4450	700
Two Pass. Convertible Coupe	4950	4250	700
Two Passenger Coupe	4800	4150	650
Five Passenger Club Sedan	4950	4450	500
Four Passenger Coupe	4950	4450	500

The Packard factories are busy to capacity—busier than ever before in nearly thirty years of fine motor car building and at a season of the year when activity is less expected. It is but good business for Packard to share its prosperity with those who buy its products. Therefore the new prices.

There has been no change in quality. Each car is identical with those Packard has been building. The new prices continue to include complete custom equipment and unlimited paint and upholstery options costing hundreds of dollars extra on many other cars. This, together with today's price reductions, gives the Packard Eight an important first cost advantage.

The lower prices make it possible for many additional thousands to step up to the possession of America's finest and most modern car.

We shall be pleased to put this great car into your hands for a demonstration and in return ask only the privilege of telling you what your present car is worth in part payment. Any Packard may be purchased on our payment plan.

(Prices do not include freight and Government tax)

$37.50 $47.50 $57.50

A great portion of the stock included in the above three groups—suits until very recently in regular $45.00 to $65.00 stocks. Because lines are broken here and there, the season slow—and because Shelf Emptying at B & B means radical action—prices are abruptly lowered.

Selection splendid—single and double breasted models in all the good colors and fabrics of the season. Conservative to the limit in style. It's investment time at B & B—$37.50, $47.50, $57.50.

Finer Ones at $67.50 and $77.50.

COTTON MARKET

New York, Jan. 3—Reports of a cold wave in the southwest seemed accountable for considerable liquidation and local selling in the cotton market today. First prices were steady at an advance of 1 point on January and March, but 2 to 10 points lower on later deliveries, active positions soon showing net losses of 18 to 30 points.

Trade buying on a scale down and some fresh buying, steadied the market at the decline, and after selling off to 19.48, for March, prices stiffened up 3 or 4 points before the end of the first hour. Part of the early selling was said to be based on belief that the low temperatures in the south would kill off some of the boll weevil in hibernation, and after showing a relatively steady tone early, Liverpool eased off also.

Private cables said continental buying had absorbed selling of near deliveries in Liverpool and that Manchester reported an improving demand for cotton cloths from India.

Selling continued in the forenoon, the decline extending to 19.35c for March or 32 points net lower, while October sold off to 18.64c, a net decline of 30 points. The relative easiness of the new crop month was considered due to belief that the low temperature in the South would improve coming crop prospects, but the volume of business tapered off at the decline, and the market at midday was quiet, prices showing rallies of 8 or 10 points from the lowest.

Lone Star Gas Gets Support at 53

The new year opened quietly on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange with prices showing only moderate changes from the closing levels of last Saturday and business being confined for the most part to odd lots.

In the early market a few trades of Standard Sanitary were recorded around the previous session's close, while Lone Star Gas was again available at a slight fraction under 54. Penn Federal Corporation preferred sold down more than a point from the past preceding sale, but the decline did not quite equal the dividend deduction of last week when the stock sold "ex" the usual quarterly payment of $1.75 a share.

The market remained dull during the latter half of the session. Early steadiness in Lone Star gave way before a moderate volume of selling and then dipped back to $53 a share, off ⅞ from the opening. There was good support at the 53-level, however, indicating that hopes of favorable dividend action have not died down. Present dividend on Lone Star is $2 a year.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Coolidge Predicts Prosperity.

A prosperous year was today predicted by President Coolidge. The country is entering a new era of mass production, new machinery, better business methods and better employment, he believes. Railroad executives, he reported, are showing a disposition to increase employment and the automobile industry is on a sound basis. New methods of financing, he declared, have made money rates low. These conditions, the chief executive said, would bring a prosperous new year to the various sections of the United States.

Penn-Federal Corporation Figures.

While the management have not made public any earning figures as yet, it was learned on the street today that the attendance at Penn-Federal (Loew's and United Artists' Penn) Theater has been averaging from 50,000 to 60,000 a week.

At an average admission charge of 50 cents, this would indicate gross earnings of about $25,000 a week or at a rate in excess of $1,300,000 annually.

The corporation, whose stocks were recently listed on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, is capitalized at $1,000,000 first mortgage 6 per cent bonds (guaranteed by indorsement by Loew's, Inc.); $1,000,000 7 per cent preferred stock and 375,000 shares, no par value, common. About 50 per cent of the common stock is jointly owned by Loew's, Inc., and United Artists' Theater Circuit, Inc., and is held in the treasuries of these companies.

Sun-Tele Financial Resume Tomorrow

The edition will contain complete data on all markets as well as comprehensive forecasts for the coming year and a resume of the events which combined to make 1927 one of the most unusual calendar periods in the country's financial and industrial history.

The various articles comprising the review have been prepared and edited by experts in the different lines and the tables have been compiled and arranged by statisticians of long standing reputation in the financial world.

STOCKS START YEAR WITH GAIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP.)—Upward price tendencies characterized the 1928 opening session of the New York Stock Exchange today, mirroring the widespread hopes of favorable business this year. Stock prices, measured by the average of 20 leading industrial issues, already are at the highest levels in history, but operators for the rise nevertheless conducted their operations with confidence, anticipating an unusually heavy January reinvestment demand.

Marking up of the call money renewal rate to 5½ per cent was foreshadowed by the large deficit in reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement, but the higher charge was generally regarded as temporary. Banks called between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 in loans, but large sums flowed here from the interior for temporary employment. An easier undertone is looked for when the January dividend and interest checks return to the banks.

With the opening of the New York Automobile Show on Saturday, Wall street began to pay more attention to the automobile shares. Hudson was one of the early leaders in that group. Packard and Paige Detroit attained new peak prices. Murray Body led the equipment issues. General Motors appeared to be neglected for the time being.

Rails, which have been sluggish for some time, showed more signs of life. The St. Paul and "Cotton Belt" issues reached new high ground, and a brisk demand developed for Texas and Pacific and some of the Eastern coalers.

Rubbers moved forward under the leadership of Ajax. Park Utah was heavily traded in, one block of 10,400 shares changing hands at 10, the price later advancing to 11⅛. American International, General American Tank and General Refractories all sold at their best prices in a year or longer.

SUGAR MARKET.

New York, Jan. 3—The raw sugar market was steady early today, but no sales were reported and prices were unchanged at 4.58 for Cuban.

Raw sugar futures opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher, with some liquidation of the January position, caused by the issuance of 31 tenders. Offerings, however, were not aggressive and after the notices were stopped, a better tone developed on covering and buying by houses with trade and European connections. Prices rallied 1 to 3 points from the opening levels and at midday were 1 to 2 points net higher. A private cable from Liverpool said efforts were being made there to sell a considerable line of Cuban sugar at prices somewhat below the market, but this was denied in well-informed circles here.

The refined sugar market was firmer and unchanged to 5 points higher, fine granulated now ranging from 5.75 to 5.90. Good withdrawal demand was reported, but new business showed no signs of broadening.

UNSCREWING THE INSCRUTABLE

IT IS the custom of this column annually to publish an accurate forecast of events for the coming year from the pen of Prof. Ezra Smartweed, the goosebone prophet and hermit of the Catskills. He follows closely the optimistic tone of Mme. Thebes and other famous European seers. Their motto is: "Always happ. and bright. Cheer up, Cuthbert, you'll soon be dead."

PROF. SMARTWEED is a most interesting person who looks upon the bright side of the future. He invented the catch phrase that every silver lining has its cloud. He received his early training in optimistic prognostication while working as a lad in the Weather Bureau.

He has had many triumphs as a prophet. It was the professor who predicted the Japanese earthquake of 1926 just as soon as he received the papers next morning. Reading his predictions for 1928 we content our soul in peace. It will be a grand year. He says:

"This year will be one of the worst years we will have had since 1927.

"Briefly I will enumerate some of the principal events which will regale us and appeal to our sense of humor during the twelvemonth:

A NOTED European statesman will pass away.

War clouds will hover over the Balkans, where they have hovered since the Byzantine Empire.

Somebody will throw a bomb at Mussolini, which he will catch for a put-out.

A well-known prince will fall off his horse.

The price of eggs in America will reach more than somewhat.

There will be several hold-ups in Chicago.

There will be several foggy days along the Atlantic seaboard.

Several English authors will come to the United States.

There will be several earth tremors in Japan.

Two great national disasters—the Republican and Democratic conventions will occur.

The country will be pronounced bone dry twelve times.

The country will be pronounced sopping wet a dozen times.

PROF. SMARTWEED, always an optimist, says that next summer will be a long, hard, bitterly warm summer. He can tell this from the fact that the bark on the Airedales is thicker than usual.

During this year college students will begin wearing side whiskers. English breakfast tea will be barred in Chicago and a prominent screen couple (at least one) will be divorced.

Forty-eight women will shoot at their husbands and hit innocent bystanders, if any bystanders can be called innocent, which most of them are not. There are a lot of "innocent" bystanders who need shooting just as much as these women's husbands do.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVEN pretty gunwomen will be acquitted by juries and an equal number of homely ones convicted, which always brings up the average to normal.

Turkeys, eggs, coal and Scotch will go up in price, as usual, and there will be terrific electrical storms somewhere.

In fact, getting right down to brass tacks, in the words of our forecaster, it is going to be an awfully tough year. Most of them are.

Twelve thousand three-legged pianos will be taken back by instalment houses and still there will be the usual increase in the number of June weddings. Harvard will go Bolshevic five times and be resuscitated.

It is a tough world, from every standpoint, of course, but it is the best one we have.

Death of B. F. Jones, Jr., Removes Notable Figure

The death of B. F. Jones, Jr., causes a loss to Pittsburgh that the city will feel as a real blow. It will be felt not only in the great business world, in which he was an eminent and notable figure, but in circles where his helpful citizenship marked him as a leader in whatever was for the progress of the city, in the betterment of which he took great pride; among his intimate friends, by whom he was held to be of the most estimable type of manhood; by those to whom his many and munificent charitable acts stamped him as a man not only willing but eager to give prompt assistance to those in need.

The world which regards success as of most importance has been impressed by the great enterprise builded by Mr. Jones. Sprung from a family of steel makers, he made that industry his chosen calling and his activities have resulted in the expansion of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation until it has assumed such gigantic proportions as to make this mammoth independent institution a rival in magnitude to large combinations in the steel industry. Measured by success, he was one of the great of America.

Here at home, however, we prefer to look at his career in a more intimate way and to regard him first as a neighbor and a friend. Not overlooking his position in the business world, we cannot forget his great civic service and the fact that he did not wait to be approached when Red Cross drives and war work required assistance in a big way, but was among the first to jump in and put his shoulder to the wheel, giving of his zeal as well as his money.

Mr. Jones was a big man in the business world. He was equally as big in his conception of the meaning of citizenship and neighborliness. Pittsburgh is going to miss him—it is going to miss him a lot.

New Year to Be Big One In Pittsburgh's Progress

The County of Allegheny and City of Pittsburgh begin a new year this week. There is no change in the city government, incumbents having been re-elected to Council, but the Board of County Commissioners come into power with one new member, Charles C. McGovern, re-elected members being E. V. Babcock and Joseph G. Armstrong.

Pittsburgh is in the midst of an extensive development program at the present time, and further great expansion is projected. Traffic betterment is contemplated in plans the estimated cost of which is to run into millions. Voters will have the final say in these matters, as bonds will be necessary. The improvements are needed, and it is believed they will be approved by the electorate.

That will be the most important thing the new commissioners will have to consider in the immediate future. It takes years to complete projects of such magnitude as are contemplated, and meanwhile the need for them constantly becomes more urgent.

The public has confidence in the new board and feels that the bickering that has been carried on between its members and the county controller's office should not be carried into the new board. There is big work to be done. It should not be carried forward so swiftly as to endanger public interest, but it should not be delayed unnecessarily.

County and city administrations both must realize that this is to be a big year in Pittsburgh's progress and that big things must not be handled in a small way.

One Touch of Lindbergh Makes Whole World Kin

If civilized people of the earth were asked to vote on the greatest event and the greatest personality of 1927, very likely the person and the event would be Col. Lindbergh and his flights. His name and his exploits are on everybody's tongue.

He has made the average man throughout the world realize that the airplane is on the verge of becoming the common vehicle of men, like the automobile today. That is, he has ushered the air age into the thoughts of mankind.

What event of 1927 can compare with it?

"ONE TOUCH OF NATURE MAKES THE WHOLE WORLD KIN." Adventurous youth, flying alone birdlike through the uncharted air, supplied the touch of nature, transmitted through the press of civilized nations.

It is partly Lindbergh's incomparable and unspoilable modesty and simplicity of character. But in the main it is something much more than that.

In the public mind he has raised flying from the level of a stunt to the exciting status of an every-day facility, soon to broaden immensely the radius of action and the spiritual outlook of the individual.

He says it is as easy as automobiling and that soon we'll all be doing it. And he has got us to believing him. So when we read of him we thrill and when we see him we go mad with enthusiasm, for in a very real sense he is our dreams come true.

What do we dream so earnestly as to be freed from the shackles of humdrum life that weigh so heavily on us, to get about the world, to see strange and wonderful peoples and places, to refresh the tired spirit?

Col. Lindbergh's 1927 achievements will have a profound effect upon the United States in 1928.

Congress will generously appropriate for air defence and, perhaps more important still, for facilities to perfect civil aviation routes.

The people will become air-minded, with great results in popular use of airplanes and an outpouring of capital for their manufacture.

We may expect the prompt provision of overland air routes uniting the countries of the Western Hemisphere and hastening the advent of Pan-Americanism.

A new and fascinating outlet will be provided for the genius of American inventors and the adventurous and pioneering spirit of American youth.

Probably the Nobel Peace Prize for 1927 will go to some wordy laborer in the tangled vineyard at Geneva.

Good will and understanding are what make peace. Nobody in this generation has brought so much international good will and understanding into the world as Lindbergh in these last seven months.

He has done more to make the United States known and liked than has been done by all our diplomats since the nation formed.

We nominate him for the entire all-American team of

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Glory of Yellow

WHEN I was a schoolboy in the country many books for children, including some schoolbooks, were bound with brilliant yellow board covers of a gamboge richness of hue which, like the starry dandelion, filled my eyes with delight. Optically, I devoured them, and in memory I can taste that matchless color yet. In my geography China was colored a delicious yellow, which seemed to me entirely appropriate for the "Celestial Kingdom."

These things are recalled by reading a communication in Science from Dr. Christine Ladd Franklin, of Columbia University, on the "Facts of Color." The article on the whole is for the physicist, but it is scented with the aroma of poetry. Yet it shocks hard certain long held theories or notions. Its opening sentence is but lightly gloved:

"There is probably not a single physicist who has gone so far in the analysis of his color sensations as to know that the violet, which plays such an important role in his list of colors, is not a unitary color at all, but plainly a 'dual color blend' of some red and more blue. It no more deserves a separate enumerating than do the other color blends, viz.: the blueish-greens, the reddish-yellows and the blueish-reds (what we also call purples)."

It will be remembered that the ordinary enumeration of "the seven colors of the spectrum" runs, beginning at the longer wave, or lower frequency end, as follows: "Red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet." Mrs. Franklin points out that the spectrum would have been more easily understood if there had been a simple blue at the high frequency end, which in reality shows a recrudescence of the red with which it began.

But, now to return to the royal color of school days —hear Mrs. Franklin again:

"On the other hand, the physicist, who makes so much of violet, is capable of wholly overlooking the fact that there is another color in the spectrum (and in the world) which there is every reason for mentioning—it is in fact the most brilliant color of them all, viz. yellow." And again: "Yellow is just as good, just as striking, and just as unitary a sensation as are red and green and blue"—the last three being the fundamental colors usually recognized in theory. Mrs. Franklin herself has a color theory, the genetic theory, according to which vision is made up of "five unitary sensations—one achromatic (white), and four chromatic which are, in the order of their development, yellow and blue, red and green. This theory shows that in the development of the color sense, yellow is the color which red and green were developed out of, (and white at a still earlier time). The color which yellow and blue were developed out of. Real red and real green when mixed give yellow."

Mrs. Franklin has made it evident that a more careful study of color is one of the most interesting and fascinating things to which those who want to help untangle the mysteries of this, after all delightful, world can turn their attention. On my part I wish to record for whatever may be its psychological significance that now, with advancing years, I no longer find so supreme a charm in the sensation of yellow as I did in youth, while this same violet, which Mrs. Franklin in a sense dethrones, has come to possess for me the divinest beauty.

More Tolerable Taxes

ONCE a tax dispute has been settled to the satisfaction of a responsible representative of the government, it should stay settled unless proof arises of fraud or malfeasance.

The new tax bill proposes to write this into the law, which is obviously just. It applies to the nation a rule accepted among individuals without question.

Repeatedly the public's sense of fairness has been shocked by the reopening of tax cases and the imposing on citizens of anxiety, costs and penalties after every effort had been made to learn and satisfy the government's claim.

Nothing could do more to make the tax ordeal tolerable than to end such preposterous uncertainty and liability to outrage.

Revive Interests

DO THE same kind and quality of thoughts course through your mind day in and day out?

Have you become tired of the sameness of the subjects which present themselves to you day after day?

Often you wonder if there are any new thoughts upon which you might deliberate.

When you fail to register anything new in your thinking moments you should adopt a course in good reading.

You need something to open up the lanes of fancy and the avenues of thought.

Read what great thinkers write.

Study history and ponder.

Enlarge your contacts with great men.

Broaden the scope of your knowledge and compare it in its relations to what you have previously digested, and then interest will revive.

Too much routine is deadening.

To associate with great men through their books is food for waning and lagging interest.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Nineteen-Twenty Eight

NEW YEAR'S gladness,
New Year's madness,
Merriment and mirth;
Laughter ringing,
Fresh hopes springing
Round the spinning earth!

Soft snow falling,
Gay bells calling,
North wind at the door;
New Year brings us
Joys, and flings us
Hopes, as years before.

Some tomorrows
Must bring sorrows,
As through years before;
But hope, lying,
Tells us sighing
Soon will be no more.

So we capture
Life's old rapture
And, with hearts elate,
Give glad greeting
Now at meeting
Nineteen-twenty-eight.

WE CAN'T permit Bozo.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Manhattan shows its amazing tolerance in its attitude toward theater pests. Last night a man who came in with a noisy party in the middle of the second act sat directly in front of me to spend the rest of the evening clowning as an orchestra leader.

It is not unusual for a couple suddenly to lose interest in a play and begin discussion of personal matters that may be heard several rows away. There have been times when players were forced to halt in their lines until the noise out front subsided. And no city in the world has so many theater coughers.

There are those who consider it a personal affront to have to rise to permit patrons to reach their seats. Lulled by too many pre-dinner cocktails, there also seems to be always a professional snorer who gives his entire repertoire, including a whistle number.

It was Frazier Hunt who, annoyed by theater talkers, during a tense moment of a drama, turned and implored sweetly: "Would you mind conversing a little louder? They make so much noise on the stage I can only catch snatches of what you are saying."

Among some theater-goers there is a disposition to come to the theater with a smart alec attitude toward the play and players. They become a self-appointed critical bishopric to tip-off to those about them a lot of unsolicited criticism.

New Yorkers, who often fly off the handle when a crossing cop suggests a little haste or a waiter seems a trifle slow, will endure rudeness in a theater in complete silence. The annoyance is almost invariably down stairs among purchasers of choice seats.

Experienced theater-goers have learned the balcony offers freedom from interruptions of this sort. Balcony patrons are those who have come to see the show and not to be seen themselves. And, as for the gallery, well, just start something there and you'll be leaving soon.

There is nothing so depressing as a night club when edges of the night have worn off. Musicians, waiters and hat checkers fall into a pronounced sulk waiting to close. Fetid air from stale cigarets and hooch accentuate the gloom. The sprinkling of hangers-on remain to the last. There are the pasty drug addicts with glamorously bright eyes, the suave blackmailing night hawks, the reigning Broadway nympholet, the moist eyed gold digger spilling her 18-karat woe to an out-of-town buyer, the gigolo and others whose perversions seem to make them so fearful of shadows, they cling to the lights to the last flicker.

Broadway has a number of night birds who do not seek their roosts until the flush of dawn. In the days of Joel's cafe a group of them would round in at dusk for breakfast, sit around awhile and move from one haunt to another. Most of them were sun dodgers on slight incomes who simply liked night better than day.

* * *

This happened in a fashionable dressmaking salon in the East Fifties. She gave her name and desired to see the latest creations. She was told her husband was waiting for her in a display room. Surprised, she stepped in and found him more than surprised—he was agitated. And when a vibrant young creature romped in with a rush a few minutes later crying: "Did I keep you waiting, Daddy?"—well, there was fun in a dressmaking parlor.

* * *

It used to be theatrical stars got clothes for practically nothing in exchange for a credit line to the dressmaker in the program. But not any more. Dressmakers discovered that this exchange never brought them a penny's worth of business.

Size of the Brain

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The size of your mind does not depend upon the size of the brain.

There are some people who are continually seeking the source of spiritual powers among material things. They think the soul is but a function of the body and mind is but a function of the brain.

Somehow facts are rather disconcerting to this theory. The capacity of a man's mind is not at all in accordance with the size of his head. There may be something good in phrenology, but the bumpiest head I ever saw that clearly indicated a criminal was on the shoulders of a very kind and intelligent person.

Phrenology has not yet reached the stage of an exact science.

Here are a few comforting facts for the head that just fills a 6¾ hat:

If one man has a leonine, massive head and another a modest, unassuming upper terminal, you can tell this about their respective brains: nothing.

Just that.

Not long ago the newspapers carried the story of the discovery of the largest human skull ever found.

It measured eight and a half inches in length and had a brain cavity of more than 122 cubic inches.

This huge head and the huge brain contained inside had belonged to a South African native whose intellect was not equal to that of a 14-year-old child with a brain and cranium a fraction of its size.

Daniel Webster had a massive head of unusual size. In London there was a man who had a head exactly its counterpart in shape and side. He was an ignorant ditch digger.

Previous to the discovery of the huge skull in Africa, of the four that ranked among the largest known, one belonged to Turgeneff, the Russian novelist, one to a day laborer, one to a bricklayer and one to an imbecile.

The woman who possessed the largest head was insane and died of consumption.

Anatole France, the writer, and Gambetta, the statesman, are among those who had heads and brains which examination showed to be below normal in size.

Says Prof. Dorsey in his "Why We Behave Like Human Beings":

"There is no evidence that the size of the brain or of the head is necessarily connected with actual or potential intelligence. Large brains have no more units than small brains; the units are larger. A small brain is no more necessarily handicapped than a small hand or a small foot."

What We Buy

IN Seattle, Wash., according to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, nearly $2,500,000 is spent every year for women's hosiery. Hosiery sales are larger than sales of books, musical instruments, plumbing and heating fixtures, toilet articles or radio sets.

It is strange to learn who it is that gets our money in this complex modern civilization. The cigaret bill of the nation is more than 50 per cent greater than that of electric service in all the homes of the country.

Right Angles

By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

Shock Absorbers

VICTORIAN parents living in nineteen hundred and now need to wear their shock absorbers constantly.

Perhaps the adolescent daughter takes cigarets as compulsory; and the freshman son flaunts the Pentateuch and the Decalogue; and they both turn bridge into Monte Carlo, and look lovingly on the wine when it is red, and the night when it is black, and the novel when it is risque, and the drama when it is nude.

Then God help the Cromwellian father and the Victorian mother and the Puritan uncles, aunts and other fringed gentry.

To them the whole social order is as cruel as a carbuncle and they can only limn it in cremated words as trenchant as a cyclone.

May I suggest a few shock absorbers to ease the jolts and soothe the nerves?

Blame the age; not the youth. The social chaos is in transition to an ordered cosmos which will exhaust the paradise vocabulary for description. Modern youth is no more subserviently clad in the regalia of the age than their parents before them. The late Armageddon cast every trend and tenet into the hopper for regrinding, and all the social Canutes this side of the deluge can't stay the process.

Cynicism is ever a transient, one-night guest in the world. He will pass on with the glow of dawn and the sunburst of day. It is a stage in the mental evolution of every serious, thinking soul. Today the age is a Rodin thinker, and youth absorbs the psychology about him. No temporizing negative has ever become an octogenarian. No chrysalis is beautiful. Wait for the emergence of the cecropia.

Test your children with the plumb line of seriousness and the odds and averages are all on the side of the affirmative. Youth seemed never so irreverent, but youth was never so serious as now. That irreverence is only the unconscious aftermath of scientific research. Medicine, for instance, has advanced more in the last 60 years than in the 23 centuries from Hippocrates to Pasteur. And all the other sciences wear the same seven-league boots. Result, inevitable disrespect for Victorian findings.

Modern youth is more entitled to sympathy than censure. There are plenty of Galahads and Evangelines still among them. Let us be [illegible] during their apotheosis.

All pendulums swing back.
